Americans Are Close To Belgian Border—British Near Channel Ports

OPPOSITION TO ADVANCE SMALL
By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Sept. 1.—Victorious Allied armies swept forward today toward the channel ports and the Belgian and German borders, occupied the historic fortress city of Verdun and sent spearheads beyond in hot pursuit of the retreating Germans.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters declared flatly that there still is no organized opposition to the historic-making Allied drives.

One American armored column is only 20 miles from the Belgian border.

ABSE, the American broadcasting station in Europe, declared last night that the U. S. First Army under Lieut. Gen. Courtney Hodges may cross the border at any moment.

Another American armored column occupied Commercy, 30 miles southeast of Verdun on the Meuse river, which the Yanks have crossed at several points.

Nearing Le Havre

Elements of the British Second Army commanded by Lieut. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey are within ten miles of the great port of Le Havre at the town of St. Romaine.

Among the numerous prisoners that fell into the allied net yesterday was Gen. Eberbach, commander of the German 7th army—or that portion of it which escaped across the Seine from the British while eating breakfast. Eberbach succeeded the previous commander, Gen. Hauser, when the latter was wounded.

Today's communique from allied headquarters was far behind front dispatches which told of the capture (Continued on Page Two)

Five years ago today Hitler started his drive into Poland which precipitated the present world war. Indications are that the sixth year of the war isn't going to last long for Der Fuehrer.

Much damage is being done to trees by the tent caterpillars which have infested this section in large numbers this year.

The stork had a busy month at the New Castle hospital, a check of the record today by hospital authorities reveals. There were 63 births during the month, of which 35 were girls and 28 were boys, an unusual condition, for more boys than girls are born in this world statistics show. This tops July's mark by 22 births, there being 41 babies born at the hospital in July of this year.

More babies were born during the month of August at the Jameson Memorial hospital than any previous August in the history of the institution, the records reveal, 91 births having occurred at the hospital. There were 85 during August (Continued on Page Two)

Stockholm Hears Reports Of 'Reign Of Terror' In Germany

By STEN HERMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
STOCKHOLM, Sept. 1.—Facing inevitable defeat on the battlefronts, the Nazi Gestapo and Storm Troop organizations have launched a reign of terror inside Germany in a desperate effort to stamp out rising opposition to Adolf Hitler's leadership, unimpeachable information in Stockholm disclosed today.

One reliable Swedish industrialist who has just returned to this country after long contact with munitions firms in Germany, revealed that in Berlin and other cities of Germany "huge crowds" of dissidents are being hanged or shot daily.

Arrests are being carried out by the countless thousands.

Many "Removed"

Pursuing Retreating Remnants Of Badly Mauled German 19th Army

FRENCH FORCES ALSO ADVANCING
By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
ROME, Sept. 1.—American troops were 50 miles south of the important French city of Lyon today and hotly pursuing retreating remnants of the badly mauled German 19th army.

Meanwhile French forces, pushing toward the Spanish border, have advanced northwest across the Rhone valley beyond Ales, some 26 miles west of Bagnols, capture of which was announced yesterday by Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson.

Guns At Calais Open Up Attack
LONDON, Sept. 1.—(INS)—German long-range guns located at Calais, Cap Gris Nez and Wimerux on the French channel coast bombarded the southeast coast of England early today.

British coastal guns immediately went into action and replied in kind.

The shellfire warning on the southeast coast lasted for several hours.

'Nazi Withdrawal Being Speeded Up'

New Kiln At Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Co. Plant 275 Feet Long

PLANT CAPACITY GREATLY EXPANDED
Anticipating the postwar conversion period and a demand for consumer goods, the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company at New Castle Junction has installed an additional tunnel kiln which will add one-third to the productive capacity of the plant and require about 100 additional employees when it is operating at capacity. The kiln is almost completed and tests will be made in the near future.

The new kiln is 275 feet long, a single decker in height and is the most modern tunnel kiln ceramic engineers can produce. Installed under authority of the War Production Board as a "stand-by" unit it will be ready for use either when the demand arises. Additional floor space to the plant has also been added in a building addition that has been made.

The installation of the new tunnel kiln brings the New Castle plant of the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company to a level with (Continued on Page Two)

New Castle Soldier Dies At Camp Polk, La., As Result Of Explosion

Word has been received here of the death of Pfc. Raymond T. Haley, aged 28 years, of 908 Marshall avenue, at Camp Polk, La. Pfc. Haley's death, which was caused by a land mine explosion, occurred Thursday.

Pfc. Haley, son of Cora Bell Shelly Haley and the late Timothy Haley, was born in Glassport, August 17, 1916. He was a resident of New Castle for the past 20 years and was a member of the graduating class of 1934 of the local high school.

He was employed by the J. J. Dean Grocery Company previous to his entering the service March 27, 1944, just five months ago.

In addition to his mother, survivors include his wife, Mrs. Marion Pherson Haley; one daughter, Carolyn; a brother, William H. Haley; and a sister, Mrs. Herman Reinhart, all of this city.

The body will be taken to the Cunningham funeral home, East Washington and Chestnut street, upon its arrival from Camp Polk. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Red Legions Roll Through Romanian Capital Of Bucharest After Capture

FINAL DRIVE ON WARSAW STARTS
By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Sept. 1.—Red army legions rolled through the Romanian capital of Bucharest today, reaching the Bulgarian border to the south and hastening the total collapse of Adolf Hitler's crumbling Balkan empire.

Gen. Ridion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army raced 32 miles south of the blazing Ploesti oil fields to enter Bucharest, where it scarcely paused before continuing its spectacular dash toward the Danube river and a possible junction with Marshal Tito's Yugoslav armies of liberation.

The army newspaper Red Star, describing the battle for Bucharest, said that the Germans had lost thousands of men killed or captured and huge numbers of tanks, artillery pieces and transport in their head-long retreat.

In Warsaw Suburbs
Hundreds of miles to the north, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian army crashed into the northern suburbs of the Polish capital of Warsaw in what may be the beginning of the final drive to free that desolate city from the Nazis.

There were mingled emotions in Bucharest at Malinovsky's Ukrainian and Russian troops moved through. For the first time since 1941 Romanian fiddlers came out of cafes to play half-forgotten snatches of Russian folk songs which the Germans had resigned as "Verboten."

Huge Armada Of Planes Hits Robot Bases
By JOSEPH THOMAS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Sept. 1.—Hundreds of Allied planes, one of the biggest armadas ever seen, thundered over the Straits of Dover today in crystal clear weather, presumably headed for the Nazi robot bomb area of Northern France and targets in the toppling Reich itself.

Heavy forces of Allied planes launched shattering new attacks on Hitler's shrinking "Fortress Europe." The daylight operations came on the heels of a Mosquito plane night raid on Duesseldorf, during which two-ton blockbusters were dropped on industrial installations. Large fires were started in the city's war factory area, already badly battered by the R. A. F.

Squadrons of Allied fighters, beginning their operations at dawn, crossed the channel in an hour-long roar, in the direction of Boulogne, Calais and Abbeville areas.

Despite the Allied drives toward the heart of the robot bomb coast of France, there was no noticeable letup in the Nazis' pilotless aircraft attacks on southern England and the London area.

Japanese Claim Formosa Raided
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The Japanese Domei agency said today that more than 10 Liberators and Mitchells of the China-based United States air force raided Formosa about 10 o'clock last night (local time). The Federal Communications Commission reported.

The Domei dispatch said that the "enemy raiders" were "summarily repulsed by our interceptors" and claimed that four planes were shot down and that two others were probably destroyed.

As usual, the Japanese report was that "only slight damage was sustained by our ground installations."

Germans Surrender To Turkish Guards
CAIRO, Sept. 1.—(INS)—A group of 194 German soldiers led by a major have surrendered to Turkish frontier guards, reports to Cairo said today. The Germans had been engaged in guarding bridges near the Turkish border.

Hitler's Forces Have Little Chance To Get Back Into Germany

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has reported to the War department that the Nazis have lost 400,000 men. One half that number were killed or wounded and the remainder captured. The supreme commander stated further that 25 German divisions had been destroyed and 18 more so badly damaged that they were useless for combat.

That is a perfect indication of what is happening to all of Hitler's Fortress Europe. A survey of its fronts is interesting.

Few Will Escape
Commencing with the Russian line in the east—though at the moment German divisions are standing their ground in Finland, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, it is improbable that many will be able to escape and return to Germany. Apparently as of this time the German defense is holding firm, from the East Prussian line southward to Warsaw and through central Poland to the Carpathian mountains. But Stalin's southern drive has taken the Ploesti oil fields and the capital of Romania. (Continued on Page Two)

Country Frantically Seeking Way Out Of War, Has Internal Trouble

FINLAND ALSO WANTS TO QUIT
By THURSTON MACAULEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Sept. 1.—Bulgaria, frantically searching for a way out of the war, showed a new inclination of internal unrest today when the three-month-old cabinet of Ivan Bagrianov resigned.

The Nazi DNB agency told of the government's downfall, coupling it with an assertion that Bagrianov and his aides will serve until a new cabinet can be formed.

OWI recorded a BBC broadcast that said there can be no discussion of armistice terms between Bulgarian and allied diplomats. The former simply will be given the allied demands, amounting to unconditional surrender, and allowed time to study them, but negotiations will not be in order, the announcer said.

It was Bagrianov who recently announced his government's intention to strive to find a path to peace.

More Jap Ships Hit By Bombs
By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Sept. 1.—American patrol bombers in a fresh attack against Japanese shipping in the Dutch East Indies destroyed or severely damaged an enemy destroyer, two tankers and two 1,000-ton freighters, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The Jap vessels were attacked in the vicinity of Menado, enemy headquarters in the Celebes in the Netherlands Indies.

Night patrol bombers blasted supply installations at Davao, principal enemy base in the southern Philippines, setting fires.

Continuing attacks on Palau, Jap naval base guarding the eastern approaches to the Philippines, Liberators hammered harbor installations on the enemy island with 71 tons of explosives, causing heavy damage and large fires which sent smoke spiraling 5000 feet into the air. There was no enemy interception.

On Dutch New Guinea, allied fighter bombers kept up daily sweeps over enemy positions in the Macuer gulf area, smashing small craft, motor transports and occupied villages.

Two of our planes were lost.

Americans Are Moving Toward Sedan And Metz

See Possibility Belgian Border May Have Already Been Crossed

NAZI OPPOSITION IS DISORGANIZED
By J. C. OESTREICHER
(U. S. Foreign Editor)

Except for the doomed Nazi robot bomb and long-range artillery coast in and around Pas De Calais, north-eastern France was virtually liberated from German domination today—just five years after Adolf Hitler launched the bloodiest and most wanton war in the history of the world.

American troops swept across the River Meuse and through the ancient fortress town of Verdun where for four long bitter years France stood firm against German attack a quarter century ago, and the British closed in rapidly on Le Havre and other ports along the English channel.

May Be In Belgium
With official announcement from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters running hours behind actual developments for reasons of security, it was not impossible that the battle of France already has become the battle of Belgium and any moment may bring breath-taking disclosure that still another European country overrun by Hitler and long feared impregnable to attack has been invaded.

For only 20 miles beyond the American First Army at last reports lay the frontier of Belgium, and the 86th day to pass since the liberation of France began found the Germans disorganized, disillusioned, broken in tanks and in spirit—in a word, defeated.

Verdun was taken by the United States Third Army under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., at six o'clock last night.

WITH THE TACTICAL AIR FORCE IN FRANCE, Friday, 10:30 a. m. Sept. 1.—With the allied advance towards the north continuing its speed, at least a third and possibly a half of Hitler's rocket base area in France has now been eliminated.

Last night pilots reported many explosions.

Dieppe and others at Le Havre and it appears that the Germans are blowing up Dieppe prior to evacuation of the largest part of the rocket coast.

Usually conservative sources were elated this morning at the speed of the advance which has exceeded the most optimistic expectations.

A senior R.A.P. officer told me: "Complete collapse of the enemy in France has now occurred. No other interpretation of the events of the last two days is feasible."

Huss Tells Of Yanks' Entry Into Verdun

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

VERDUN, Aug. 31, 6 P. M.—(Delayed)—In a master-stroke rarely equalled in military history, Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s Third U. S. Army seized the historic fortress city of Verdun today, achieving in 24 hours what the Kaiser's armies failed to do in four years.

The fall of Verdun—where Marshal Henri Philippe Petain uttered his immortal phrase, "they shall not pass!" in World War I—places the rampaging Yanks only 25 miles from Belgium, 35 miles from the Duchy of Luxembourg and 50 miles from Germany itself. At the same time it opened a breach in the Maginot line and paved the way for an American march toward the Siegfried line, where the Germans may finally stand and fight.

Cut 65-Mile Swath
Starting from a point east of Reims at 4 p. m. Wednesday, Patton's armored columns, followed by motorized infantry, cut a 65-mile swath straight through the Hindenburg line and the Argonne Forest to enter Verdun at 11 a. m. today. Two hours later they held the entire city, including its dismantled major forts and the adjacent heights.

The Germans seemed completely unable to cope with the whirlwind of their 88s knocked out three of our tanks, but they were knocked back quickly and withdrew across the Meuse river after blowing up some bridges.

They shelled the eastern edge of Verdun intermittently up to 6 p. m. The first G. I.'s inside the city were Sgt. Alfred Schultz of Loyal, Wis., and Corp. Don Maty of Missouri. (Continued on Page Six)

Nazis Suffer Terrific Loss Near Livron

By LARRY NEWMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LIVRON, Southern France, Sept. 1.—South of Livron lies a scene of carnage and wreckage which was described officially today as "the greatest of the Mediterranean war, and possibly of all military operations of this or any other war for the area involved."

In the small Rhone Valley, where the town of Livron lies, American doughboys annihilated the fleeing Germans attempting to escape the Yankee trap.

In 48 hours U. S. troops killed, wounded or captured some 10,000 Germans—turning the little valley into a slaughter house for the Nazis. An estimate 2000 to 4000 Nazi vehicles were left clogging the roads and wreckage, smashed and buried, is piled high on either side of the path which our bulldozers have carved through the debris.

Artillery and machine gun fire accomplished this devastation from ranges sometimes as close as 50 yards.

Thousands of dead horses produced an unsufferable stench which rises over the hills for miles, even to heights more than 100 feet from the ground. Piper Cub pilots flying at this level wear gas masks.

German Report Says Americans Are In Lorraine

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(INS)—American troops are in Lorraine—territory annexed by Nazi Germany and made part of the Reich following the defeat of France in 1940, the Nazi agency DNB reported today.

After taking Verdun, DNB said, American spearheads thrust into the Lorraine basin. The Americans established three bridgeheads across the Meuse south of Verdun, DNB added.

SLIGHT DECLINE
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Pitt's bureau of business research today reported a slight decline in business for the week ended August 26 as its seasonally adjusted index went down to 175.1 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

No change was reported in the level of iron and steel production, although a counter-seasonal decline was recorded in coal production.

HITLER'S FORCES HAVE LITTLE CHANCE TO GET BACK INTO GERMANY

Therefore, any Nazi soldiers now in Bulgaria are of a certainty trapped.

Next, the southern front—the German units now fighting in defense of the Gothic line at the northern end of the Italian peninsula will soon be flanked from the east by Marshal Tito's Yugoslavian Partisans.

Already Flanked
They are already flanked from the west by General Patch's American Seventh Army. Those German defense divisions can only escape northward through the passes in the Alps. Again, winter will soon hinder those routes of flight and Allied air forces should be able to destroy the remnants as they are funneled through the passes. In other words, the German defense troops in Italy may already be written off.

And now the western line of Fortress Europe—every Nazi soldier in all of France to the south and west of an approximate line commencing at the westernmost point of Switzerland and running northward through Dijon and Paris to Le Havre may be considered as already liquidated. Their escape is impossible. And it is highly improbable that any of Hitler's armed units now in France to the north and east of that line will be able to make their getaway.

The British and Canadians in their capture of Amiens have already swung to the amazing motorized speed of advance of General Patton and his Third American Army. In other words, today the British, Canadian and American armored columns are on the loose in that small remaining portion of France which is to the east and north of the line just described. Allied fliers control the air. It is most improbable that anything but German stragglers will ever reach Germany from what was a great Nazi defense army in France.

ALLIED ARMIES SWEEP FORWARD THROUGH FRANCE

of historic Verdun by Lieut. Gen. Patton's Third Army with little opposition from the enemy.

Seizure of Verdun placed the allies 25 miles from Belgium, 35 from the Dutchy of Luxembourg and less than 50 from the border of Germany itself. Since Patton sent some of his armored columns spearheading ahead beyond the city, it is certain that they are considerably closer to all three borders.

Rolling Ahead
Other units of the Third Army rolled ahead at least 20 miles south of Troyes, beyond Bar-Sur-Seine, while some columns struck beyond St. Dizier in the direction of the vital road and rail junction of Nancy.

The Third Army's advance, the spokesman said, averaged 20 miles in all directions from its previously announced positions. But since he placed the Yanks 23 miles from Verdun it was obvious that he was far behind the actual developments.

Reconnaissance elements of the British Second Army, moving swiftly north of Rouen, were at St. Saen, the robot bomb coast.

Other units of the Second Army pushed well beyond Amiens in the direction of Abbeville where the French and British suffered one of their worst defeats of the war in 1940.

The spokesman declined to comment on reports that American forces striking northeast of Reims had actually reached Sedan at the edge of the Ardennes forest, where the Germans scored their first great breakthrough four years ago.

May Seal Off Germans
Numerous towns and villages were swept up in the allied advance north of Paris, which threatens to seal off the remaining German forces in northern France. Senlis, Creil and Compiègne were among the places occupied as the Nazis fell back with little show of fight.

Reconnaissance elements were only 2000 yards from the town of Compiègne, at the edge of the forest where Marshal Petain signed terms with Adolf Hitler in 1940.

The isolated German garrison at the port of Brest continues to hold out, while the allies are closing in slowly from three directions.

Battlefront dispatches said that Patton's armored cavalry combat teams attacked the Germans when the latter offered apparently desultory resistance at Verdun.

In their unchecked sweep through the Aronne forest where so many of their fathers made the supreme sacrifice in World War I, American infantrymen rode atop tanks virtually unmolested.

HUGE NEW KILN BEING ADDED TO LOCAL INDUSTRY

the finest sanitary ware plants in the world. It ranks with the best.

Recently the company added another long line of production innovations. Casting of ware is now done by the conveyorized method. Instead of a caster filling a dozen cores and then moving them to the drying area the cores now travel on a conveyor belt, making for more efficient operation. Innovations have always been the rule in the Universal Sanitary, first the tunnel kiln, then colored ware, then casting ware and now the conveyorized casting.

The new tunnel kiln will be heated by gas or oil. The freshly glazed ware is put into one end of the tunnel kiln and enters a section of comparatively low heat. From here it progresses on through the kiln, entering sections heated to higher degrees until finally it goes through the final section where the temperature is 2240 degrees. It emerges from the kiln a finished lavatory, sink, toilet bowl or whatever.

Record Kiln
The kiln presently in operation has established a world's record for continuous performance. Lighted on April 15, 1927, there has never been a minute of the time since when the heat was not on. Such a record has never been in the history of the pottery industry and the kiln is the object of interest of the entire industry. Since it was lighted no person has even been inside the kiln for the terrific heat prohibits it. No repairs have been necessary and for 24 hours day and night in nearly years the tunnel kiln has been turning out vitrified china.

Wounded Veteran Returns To City

Back from the invasion of France, Technical Sgt. Frankie Moran, well known boxer of New Castle, stopped in at The News office today for a visit. Sgt. Moran was with an infantry outfit in the battle of St. Lo and was shot twice in the right arm. His arm was broken in addition to being punctured with the bullets but he is improving.

Save for the arm which is yet in a sling, Sgt. Moran looks fit enough to put on one of the slam bang battles for which he was famous before he traded his boxing gloves for a rifle.

Skirmishes are continuing along the Italo-French Alpine front, where units of the American Seventh Army have progressed close to the Swiss border.

A naval announcement disclosed that a group of 90 American Marines occupied the Ratonneau and Ponegues Island of Marseille following the surrender of German garrisons to an American cruiser captain.

AMERICANS ARE MOVING TOWARD SEDAN AND METZ

Germans had failed to do in four years of savage effort and while much credit was due to the invincible striking power of the American army, headquarters made no secret of the fact that the Nazis simply did not put up a fight.

From Verdun, the Americans speared out toward the great fortress of Metz, whose inadequacy and ultimate collapse spelled the doom of Napoleon III in 1871, and First Army troops headed for Sedan, where that ill-fated emperor was taken prisoner by the Prussians.

There was every likelihood that Sedan and Metz would crumble this time also. When Sedan goes, the First Army will be in striking distance of the Ardennes and Belgium, while Metz is the last bulwark before Germany and the Siegfried line.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's British reached within 10 miles of Le Havre and in very little time word is expected to come that the Germans on the coast have been isolated or cut to pieces. Their position is clearly untenable and hopeless.

Old-time residents of Verdun, some of whom lived through three wars, were unanimous in saying that swift seizure of that fortress city clearly foreshadowed collapse of Germany itself. They told of the total disorganization of German forces in eastern France during the past week and they had ready on hand the Stars and Stripes to raise the moment the last German had left and the first American had entered.

By the way, speaking of the forgotten man, what has become of Rudolf Hess?

in a secret session Tuesday at which time it is believed the question of peace with Russia will again be discussed.

Russian sources in Stockholm were quoted as saying that contact has already been established between the two governments and that negotiations already are under way between Finland's new president, Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav von Mannerheim, and Soviet officials.

Russian foreign commissar Vyacheslav Molotov last night received members of the Romanian armistice delegation to Moscow.

A British broadcast heard by NBC said the Romanian armistice delegation held its first meeting with Molotov just as Moscow big guns fired 24 victory salvos in honor of the entry of Russian troops into Bucharest.

The Cairo radio quoted "reliable sources" as saying that the armistice between Bulgaria and the western allies "will not necessarily be concluded in Cairo or by the present Bulgarian delegation."

ing their patience and expressing their thoughts in hundreds, these persons have been arrested and removed without any notice to their families, he declared.

Hardly any known member of the opposition groups has escaped death. As a result, workmen in factories have found their nerves rubbed raw from suspense—but all joined in harboring a grudge against the Gestapo, to be settled on some fine day in the future.

The people know, he continued, that the military situation is critical, although the Nazi hierarchy has supplied them with more information concerning the eastern front than with the debacle in France.

Boys In Service
In the last few weeks, hundreds of thousands of untrained men from factories, offices, shops and theaters have been sent to the eastern front, while the official propaganda follows the line that even the Hitler Jugend (youth) volunteered with the others for service. The actual fact, this source said, is that boys as young as 12 years of age are being forced into war service.

Heart-breaking scenes are becoming more and more frequent as boys are packed off to the Russian front while their mothers weep.

Inside Berlin itself, the situation was described as especially critical.

This morning, Pa. News was told a little story about Victory garden looters that should be probed by city authorities. At the residence of Horace T. Tressler, Beckford street, a victory garden was planted with pride. His prize tomatoes, the Winsel variety, he planted about one dozen stalks and the progress of this little corner, has been watched with enthusiasm by the family. Not long ago, one tomato grew to weigh about three pounds. Another typical of it, was ripening. It was exceptionally large, and was to be picked today, only it was stolen in the night. Other thefts have also been reported.

Before We Commit Ourselves

In their first announcement of the progress made in a week's discussions, the Dumbarton Oaks conferees are able to state their general agreement on the form of a world security organization. This is not surprising, since they brought to the meeting the plans of their respective governments which apparently included the same broad set-up now recommended.

This would comprise an assembly of "all peace-loving nations," whose equal sovereignty would be recognized, and a council of "a smaller number of members" composed of the "principal states" and some others.

This means, of course, a council ruled by the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China, with the possible later addition of France. The role of the smaller countries is not defined, but the machinery suggests the ineffective old League of Nations, where the council held the power as a close corporation and the assembly operated as a debating society.

But it wasn't the form of the old League that proved its undoing so much as the unwillingness of the council to use the powers it possessed for preserving peace, reflects the Philadelphia Inquirer. The main problem, so far as the United States is concerned, is how to contribute and apply its share of the armed forces to curb an aggressor, in view of Congress' sole power to declare war.

Limitation of such forces might be embodied in a treaty requiring Senate approval. It is easy to visualize an international emergency where immediate action would be necessary, but undoubtedly the American people will insist that any military commitments be amply safeguarded. This is a vital question which should be made clear to the other members of this conference even though it can only recommend, not decide.

Grave Prediction

A life insurance company has made the sobering prediction that the first year of peacetime auto travel may produce a warlike toll of 50,000 fatalities. It cites the pent-up desire for travel; the many excess-vehicles, with a contempt for danger, as drivers; and, most important, the bad condition of many over-age cars that will still be in use.

Suggested remedies are rigid tests and inspections, tightened driver's license requirements, and re-education in traffic safety. Certainly every community should start making all possible preparations to avert such a tragic and very possible future.

Brownell And Dewey

Collier's pays this rather colorful tribute to Herbert Brownell Jr., who is running Mr. Dewey's campaign:

"There are in New York a number of Bob Hannegans who are still taking sufa cures as the result of professional collisions they've had with the mild-mannered and eminently genteel Mr. Brownell."

One thing we admire about the Dewey effort is the fact that when something is said, it packs a definite wallop!

Walter Davenport says that Mr. Dewey "knows what precisely he is about to do today and tomorrow, and the next day, too. You'd never know by looking at Mr. Dewey that it's a hot day. He even sweats in an orderly, efficient manner."

Making Friends For America

A great many letters received from American boys overseas reflect the ability of the average American to make friends wherever he goes.

One soldier tells of dancing with a Chinese lass—jitterbugging, it seems; another is proud of some friends he has made in New Guinea; a third lad will marry an English girl he met a year ago; one other lad has made many friends in Central America, and so it goes.

Sometimes our boys overseas make friends where men of other nations have failed. It must be some spark of American personality that does the trick.

Perhaps it is because Americans are raised in a land of equal opportunity, where class distinction is a rarity, where all men respect others' rights. Americans have a sense of humor, which is half a battle won when dealing with strangers.

Our lads overseas are making more progress in a few years toward selling Americans as friends than our diplomats have made in a century and a half. Perhaps the key to peace itself lies in the hands of these splendid youngsters who apparently are equally at ease in a Solomon's hut, an Australian farmhouse or an English castle.

Bananas Again

Whatever the comedy content of a single hypothetical banana for jokesmiths, the protracted shortage of bananas has been no laughing matter for the fruit trade, for persons dependent on the fruit for certain health-sustaining properties, and for banana addicts generally—all, in a sense, given to sighing: "We look before and after, and pine for what is not."

But the good word from the War Food Administration is to the effect that the supply of bananas is no longer a wartime lost horizon, that it has risen to almost 40 per cent of the prewar normal. According to the WFA, banana receipts in New York in July totaled 347 carloads, compared to 900 carloads in July, 1941, whereas January, 1943 receipts were only 71 carloads.

Doubtless, New York reflects the general banana situation. Quite a number of bananas have been noticed hereabouts of late under circumstances indicating that they were not merely stopping over. In fact, it would not surprise some persons if, one of these fine days, when they called for a banana split, they got a banana split instead of the amused pity of the presiding officer of the soda fountain.

Remember the good old days when the most abundant thing on the restaurant lunch counter was catsup?

When you are in Washington, D. C., in the summertime and want to complain about the heat you can do it in all humidity.

An Oklahoma couple, after 53 years of marriage, say they can't get along and want a divorce. How would you like to be participant in a 50-year argument?

George Bernard Shaw says that an income of $3,200 to $4,800 a year is necessary to keep civilization safe. Are these amounts before or after Morgenthau?

The New Deal has apparently abandoned its 1932 theme song: "Happy Days Are Here Again." How about substituting "When You and I Were Young Maggie"?

Washington Calling

By MARQUIS CHILDS

Wallace To Take Part In Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A great many people have had ideas as to the part that Henry Wallace should play in this campaign, but he has returned to Washington with his mind made up to follow his own bent.

One plan, hatched by New Dealers close to the White House, was to have Wallace head up an independent committee of liberals for FDR similar to the Norris-La Guardia committee in 1940. Those who are promoting such a group argue that the CIO political action committee is so closely identified with the left wing of organized labor that another rallying point outside the labor movement is necessary.

Wallace, it was reasoned, would be the ideal chairman of such a committee because of his farm origins. While the effort to persuade the vice president to take this assignment has not been abandoned, the chances that he will accede are slight.

Have Long Talk

Besides the family lunch to which the president referred at his press conference, the president and vice president had a long talk alone, their first since the convention at which, with FDR's consent, Wallace was dropped. Wallace showed no rancor. He told his friend and chief, as he has told others since his return, that he never felt happier in his life.

He said he had reached certain conclusions about what he should do to help bring about the fourth term. He did not anticipate making a great many set speeches. Instead, he would travel about the country, and particularly in the middle west and the border states, talking informally with small groups.

By doing that, he told the president, he thought he could make his greatest contribution. The president heartily approved of this approach, and the two men parted with as much friendliness as though the Chicago schism had never occurred.

One thing that persuaded Wallace to take the informal approach was the success of the meetings he held on his recent trip to Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut. He felt that he got really down to cases with the people he talked with; that they understood each other.

Independent Stature

Behind the serenity he brought back to Washington with him is the sense that for the first time in his political career he has independent stature. Admirers from all over the country have written that he must take the lead in liberalizing the Democratic party. Out of defeat has come a kind of recognition that Wallace had before and with it a feeling of independence which is also new.

While the thought of his own political future may be in the back of his mind, he is keeping this out of present considerations. His friends are likely to be surprised by a bolder Wallace than they have known before.

He is even contemplating a speaking trip into Virginia, the domain of Senator Harry Byrd. It was the Byrd-controlled Democratic convention in Richmond that declared against Wallace's re-nomination.

To those who ask about his present political philosophy, the vice president hands reprints of a speech he made at the Democratic state convention in Des Moines and an interview with the Des Moines Register. These reiterate the view he expressed at Chicago that the Democratic party must become a truly liberal party to survive, and that its only chance of victory lies in liberalism.

He knows very well, of course, that to tie himself up as chairman of a committee of so-called independent liberals would be to sacrifice much of his new-found freedom of action. It would be to bind himself once again to the Roosevelt chariot.

Those who interpret his new attitude as signifying a cooling toward Roosevelt will, in my opinion, miss the mark. He will work hard for FDR's reelection. But it will be the effort of a man with strength of his own to offer. Henry Wallace today is not walking in anyone else's footsteps.

PRIDE AND PLEASURE

I've been wondering—taking pride in those thin rods, silken tied, slender tips and asate rings—If such splendor really brings More to thrill the human soul Than does boyhood's bamboo pole.

I am old enough to feel Satisfaction in a reel. Like a fine watch, truly made, And the price for it I paid. But I wonder—man or boy—Which of us had greater joy?

Is it fancy—older grown—I remember gladness flown, And imagine now I had Thrills exquisite as a lad, And was happier—in the whole—With that common fishing pole?

I'm not sure; but this I've learned: Fun is not with cost concerned. Splendor merely adds to pride. Costly rods, all silken tied, Give a man no surer joy Than is granted to the boy.

AUNT SOPHRONY ANSWERS JUNIOR'S 7,443RD QUESTION

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:35. Sun rises tomorrow 6:25.

All children face the hard problem of learning good table manners without seeing any.

A pretzel manufacturer is the man who makes crooked dough and still remains within the law.

A successful marriage is based in two books, the check book and the cook book.

Misery loves company, but company don't reciprocate.

THAT OLD STORY

A little girl wanted $100. Her mother told her to write God a nice letter and mail it. She did this. The postmaster sent the letter to Washington. The dead letter office thought it would be a good job to pass the letter on to President Roosevelt. The president smiled and said the child should not be disappointed. So he told his secretary to send the child $5.

Upon receipt of a letter from the president and $5, the little girl addressed another letter to God, as follows: "Dear God, The next time you send me money, don't send it through Washington, because they always take most of it, and I get only $5 of the $100."

That's very much the same as the story about the little girl who wrote a letter to heaven, asking for $25 for her poor parents. In the dead letter office, a letter sorter, a Mason, took the letter and read it to his lodge. Five dollars was sent to the family.

Some months later the child wrote a similar letter and added this postscript: "Don't send it through the Masons this time. Last time they kept $20."

Many girls are not as bad as they are painted.

Some people make money. Others earn it.

You heard of the gallant soldier who said to his miss: "May I kiss your hand?" "What's the matter," she retorted. "Is my mouth dirty?"

Some men are known by their deeds. Others by their mortgages.

The lines that Time traces on her brow are the lines that a woman never care to read between.

Jess: "Miss Croommore is going abroad to finish her musical education."

Tess: "Where did she get the money?"

Jess: "The neighbors all subscribed!"

With most people, success has a strong tendency to destroy belief in luck.

There is a good deal of talk about a poor singer in a church choir. It must be dull when poor singing in a choir attracts attention.

No man is a hero to a bill collector.

Mrs. Ann: "I need a girl who knows her place, is never out nights and can be depended on to stay."

Applicant: "That's not me, mum; but I know just such a one. She's my cousin Emeline."

Mrs. Ann: "Where can I see her?"

Applicant: "Nowhere, mum; she was buried last Tuesday."

Those people who let snakes bite them to show their faith evidently haven't read the reproof: "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord."

What we wonder is why so many people who know so many remedies for every ailment didn't study medicine.

The weight of a dollar will bend many a conscience.

A covetous man does nothing that he should tell his dies.

A conference—A yearly gathering of persons whose principal objects are the submission of statistics setting forth the increase in their families during the past year, and the getting of themselves photographed.

How time change. Forty years ago, soldiers in the Philippines didn't see a white girl in three years, but nobody sympathized or did anything about it.

The Parent Problem

By GARY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

MOTHER'S SUCCESS STORY

"Dear Dr. Myers: I have often wanted to write you in the course of the last six or seven years. Our boys are now nine and ten, and if you remember, I corresponded with you when they were four and five and I taught a home kindergarten class. I attribute to that training, along with some previous training in a nursery school, the success I have enjoyed with them all along.

"They have an allowance payable each Saturday and never ask for money for any purpose. They have certain duties to do before we get off in the morning (I teach in Junior High), and before and after breakfast they busy themselves with their respective duties which are posted on the wall by their beds (by their father who checks).

"Last night I attended a bridge party (Friday night) and when I returned the house was spotless. They had cleaned up the 'do-as-you-please' room, and the kitchen as well as any servant could do, as a surprise to me. It takes a lot of psychology, patience, and system to put it over but it can be done, and sometimes I feel unworthy of my family, because they are so cooperative. The boys take piano lessons and are doing nicely. Once a week we have family night and sing and play like 'circus people.'

Many Playmates

"As you probably have guessed, my yard is filled each afternoon with a gang of boys from 'both sides of the track' for an hour or so. There will be no lawn this summer in that particular space, but we can have lawns some other day.

"This letter is not organized, for it is Saturday morning and I am in the room where we read, play the radio, type, and play games and there is a group around me now playing. Knowing you as I do, although I have never met you personally, I feel that you do understand what is written between the lines. . . . Hardly a day passes that I do not have some nice thing said about my boys and I often say that I give Dr. Myers credit for at least part of their behavior.

Verse For Children

"You and your wife have the very best wishes of a typical American family and I wish this bit of verse, which is pasted on its kitchen cabinet door:

"Among the things which girls and boys Should have along with treasured toys Are these: A home where hearts are gay

A yard in which to romp and play A shelf where jams and jelly are An ever-laden cookie jar;

A prayer to speak when day is done A mother's kiss when words unsaid When they are fondly tucked in bed."

Since I must read so many letters which are chock full of trying problems, I naturally am happy to read one occasionally which "celebrates" success. However, as I read that verse, I could not help thinking of all the children who, because of the war, don't have "a dad to join them in their fun." Let us try to be good neighbors to these boys.

Hitler's dumbest mistake was to use the rocket bomb, which can't effect the war's outcome but does convince the Allies they dare not let Germany become strong again.

One must look forward, not backward, to keep a job, according to an editorial. How about the guy who does the "Ten Years Ago Today" column?

Souvenir hunters tore the feathers from the headresses of visiting Indians at a film preview. Now look who's doing the scalping.

WHO ALIGHTS FIRST?

"Please answer these questions: (1) A man is seated between two girls in the rear of an automobile. Should he get out first—seven though this necessitates crossing in front of one of the girls so that he might help them out? Or should the girl nearest the curb alight first? (2) What is the proper procedure when one girl is seated between two men?"—Mimi.

Answer: (1) The men should get out first so that he may help out both girls. And since both girls should be helped into the car, the man getting in last, he should sit next to the door, thus eliminating the necessity of his climbing over one girl when both entering and leaving.

(2) Only the man nearest the curb should get out first, being followed by the girl, whom he should assist.

The second man should then follow the girl. Both men should not precede her, even if she is seated on the far side of the car.

The only excusable reason for a man to precede a woman is so that he might assist her. A woman should always precede a man entering a vehicle. He should help her up the steps.

No-Paint Edict Leaves White House Shabby
State Department And Blair House Glisten
Some White House Reflections

By HELEN ESSARY

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—If ever a place looked like the boss and the family were away it is the White House now. It reminds me of the big house a miner built when he struck it rich and then lost interest in when the mine stopped paying.

As I peered through the rusting iron fence of the Executive Mansion and grounds I thought the whole place had the air of a deserted mining town. The paint is hanging from the outer walls of the house in shreds. Actually, the sandstone supports seem to be peeling off in layers.

That unhappy addition put at the Capitol side of the mansion built principally for the use of James F. Byrnes, War Mobilization director, which addition by the way I understand is unhappy yet because of Mr. Roosevelt's led down of his old friend's vice presidential hopes at the Chicago convention, is still unpainted. It is now a dirty yellow. This makes a not too pleasing contrast with the dirty white of the White House.

The old administrative offices of the White House where the president works and receives callers is the same color as the White House proper. Mrs. Roosevelt has refused to let the last addition be painted any color at all.

Mrs. Roosevelt, so I gather, won't let any painting or repairing be done to the White House until after the war. The inside of the mansion is miserably in need of freshening up but Mrs. Roosevelt says "No! Nothing until after the war."

The president's wife has also closed the White House greenhouse. If the White House needs flowers it buys them. The answer to this new rule is that few flowers are ever bought. Somebody manages to keep flowers on Mr. Roosevelt's desk.

The White House grounds are looking neglected, too. Mrs. Roosevelt has cut down the number of gardeners to one. For the whole big yard-front and back East Lawn and West Lawn. No extra expenditures in war time, says Mrs. Roosevelt.

The state department isn't bothered about the effect of extra expenditures in war time. It keeps its flower beds and lawn tidy and gay. Passers by have counted three or four men working on its small plots.

Nor does the state department, punctilious as it is, worry about using a little paint before the end of the war. The regular paintings have continued in this solemn old edifice regardless of war restrictions. Certainly there's been no rationing of paint, polish or elbow grease at Blair House, the government guest house on Pennsylvania avenue across the way from the White House.

The two sections now joined as a residence and administrative office for visiting dignitaries glow with the brightness of a canary's breast. In short, I mean the houses are painted with a color to be called "Colonial Yellow." And right smart they appear, too. As if somebody were proud of them. They haven't that uninhabited, shabby look of the residence of the president of the richest country in the world.

If you want a historical note or two on the White House—architects used to call it "The Finest Gentleman's House in America." It was designed by James Hoban, supposedly after the residence of the Duke of Leinster in Dublin. Investigation shows, however, that a number of houses in England, Ireland and even several in Poland are closer to the president's house than the assumed Dublin model.

The East Room was not entirely finished until 1836. Thomas Jefferson who seems to have been Republican in that what was Democrats were called them on paper and conversationally, was in private life an aristocrat. He gave the unfinished and unfurnished White House a luxurious character. Jefferson's dressing room was large enough to hold "elegant fashionable chairs of crimson and gold," the president and Mrs. James Madison lived in Colonel Tayloe's Octagon House now standing at New York avenue and Eighteenth street, while the president's house (as it was then called) was being rebuilt after having been burned in 1813 by the British invaders.

The Blue Room, whose walls are hung with silk of steel blue and over whose windows golden eagles are perched, is regarded as one of the most finely proportioned rooms in the entire country.

DEATHS

Our Civil War was a long hard struggle. Our armies lost many men, killed and wounded. We think of such loss of life as a great calamity.

Every year in this country we lose by death from accidents as many lives as we lost in the entire Civil War.

We do not seem to be very much concerned about it. It is a terrible loss.

All of us should take precautions against accidents.

The greatest danger seems to be from falls, machinery, vehicles, falling objects, tools and burns.

We should try to protect ourselves and others.

We should take a look around our homes and remove any hazards.

Precaution and prevention sound pretty good.

Government Seizes Mines

Announces "Every Miner Expected To Be Back On Job Monday"

(International News Service)
Despite government seizure of the mines of two large western Pennsylvania bituminous operators, United Mine Workers officials today went ahead with six more strike votes in their efforts to gain recognition for supervisory workers.

While the Solid Fuels Administration of the Interior Department announced that it expected "every man back on the job Monday" at the seized pits of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal company and the Ford Collieries company, strike votes were being held in a half dozen West Virginia mines today, with another 10 scheduled in western Pennsylvania diggings tomorrow.

It remained an open question as to whether the miners would return to their posts under government operation of the pits. Nine of the strikes were "legal" due to balloting of the miners under the Smith-Connally Act.

In all, 16 western Pennsylvania mines were down this morning. Fifteen of the shutdowns were directly traceable to the drive of the UMW district 50 supervisory employees union to gain bargaining rights.

John McAlpine, president of the union, last night said he had not yet received official word from the Department of the Interior as to the seizure of the mines and, therefore, had no comment to make.

Fear Germany Has Discovered New Explosive

May Have Greater Destructive Power Than Anything World Has Ever Seen

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Highly responsible officials of the American government seriously believe today that Germany may have discovered a new explosive capable of greater destructive power than anything the world has ever before seen.

However, the Germans are believed to be unable so far to control this destructive demon. Reports have reached the American government that five mysterious explosions of an unprecedentedly terrific nature have occurred recently in German-occupied territory in Europe.

The latest was the one which occurred on the French side of the English Channel shortly before midnight three nights ago. London news dispatches said this explosion was the greatest felt in England since the war. It shook a considerable part of the southeastern coast of England, rocking houses and shattering windows.

In some instances, the mysterious explosion is reported to have leveled almost everything within a square mile of territory. Factories blocks away from the center of the explosion are reported to have been completely destroyed.

Officials who have been studying the reports believe that if the Germans should succeed in controlling the new explosive, they probably would destroy entire cities with it. A desperate hope that it can be controlled and made to work as an effective instrument of war is thought to be behind the efforts of the Nazi leaders.

Some American officials think that if such an explosive actually has been discovered, the inventor should in the interests of humanity be executed before he can pass on the secret to others.

Navy Investigates Officer's Suicide

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 1.—(INS)—A routine investigation was being conducted today by navy department officials of the suicide of Lt. (jg) J. Donald Reifsnider of Scranton, Wednesday shortly before a scheduled appearance before a federal grand jury studying "certain matters" in the middle district court of Pennsylvania.

"Our investigation is routine," said a navy spokesman. "When any member of our forces dies or is killed under any than ordinary circumstances we always conduct an inquiry."

The 35-year-old officer, a prominent Scranton attorney in civilian life, shot himself with a pistol presented him by his late father, Dr. J. C. Reifsnider, according to Lackawanna County Coroner Paul E. Kubasko.

Education Council Makes Report Today

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The department of public instruction today was slated to receive reports on postwar educational plans drafted by approximately 35 sub-committees of the State Council of Education.

Superintendent Francis B. Haas said the committees have been working on the reports for more than two months. The plans were expected to embrace Gov. Edward Martin's recommendations calling for a program which will not overburden Pennsylvania taxpayers or deny any child proper education because of race, creed or color.

Thwart Attempt By C.I.O. To Influence Vote Of Soldiers

War Ballot Applications Must Carry Signature Of Applicant Elector

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 1.—(INS)—An attempt by the political action committee of the C.I.O. asserted to influence soldier voting was thwarted today.

A ruling of Secretary of State E. A. Tamm, and Alvin G. Redding, of Salt Lake county declared that ballot requests will be honored only when the request is made by the applicant service man or woman.

The PAC's action came to light yesterday when the secretary of state received a penny postcard soliciting ballot application bearing the inscription, "Compliments of the Utah State Political Action Committee."

The cards were designed so that relatives of service personnel could fill them out and send them to the secretary of state. The card in question was mailed by Ralph Jack, Salt Lake City CIO member, and requested that a ballot be sent to Mr. Lorenzo T. Jack at his overseas address.

Under the amended Utah election law, soldier war applications must be signed by the elector unless he is blind or otherwise unable to write. In that event, the application may be signed by his superior officer.

"War ballot applications will not be honored unless they carry the signature of the applicant elector," Secretary Monson said.

Joe DiMaggio And Wife Reconciling

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The DiMaggios of screen and baseball fame were believed reconciled today in San Francisco, only a few months after the former Dorothy Arnold of the movies gained an interlocutory divorce decree from the ex-New York Yankee outfielder.

All evidence pointed to a complete reconciliation though Mrs. DiMaggio was quoted as denying the reports of friends who said that the couple are planning to make their home in California's San Fernando Valley after Sergeant Joe is released from the army.

The final divorce decree is scheduled to be handed down in Los Angeles superior court in April 1945.

HUSS TELLS OF YANKS' ENTRY INTO VERDUN

nongabala, Pa. They found the citizens already waiting eagerly to greet them.

The citizens swamped my jeep and paid no attention to the shells falling on the other side of the city. They said that the bulk of the German army had withdrawn the previous night.

Little Resistance

Only a few pockets of enemy resistance were encountered in the Argonne Forest and they were quickly dealt with, mostly with snipers and fire.

The ghosts of these Doughboys of 1918 must have grinned and cheered as the Yanks set foot today with little trouble on that bloody contest terrain.

I didn't hear a single heavy gun fired as I leaped from one side of the Argonne to the other.

Except for scattered shots and the constant presence of German stragglers who popped out unexpectedly to surrender, the ride in some places might have been like a tourist trip.

I paid a visit to the American cemetery and monument commemorating the famous World War I battle and it was an inspiring sight. Rolling heights, leafy with young trees, spring suddenly into view just beyond the town, where a panoramic glance over the vast expanse of forest gives one a clear understanding how the immortal lost battalion of the first war could have been lost and surrounded.

Memories Undisturbed
Like Belleau Wood, none of the war memorials or road markers have been disturbed in the past four years. Reconnaissance patrols had no time to stop there, but I made a brief pause myself and found the caretaker ready to hoist the stars and stripes once again.

Not a single American soldier was killed yesterday in this sector of the Argonne Forest.

Possibly the Germans would like to make a stand, but Gen. Patton is not giving them time to make a stand anywhere.

On Wednesday I drove 300 miles in a jeep covering cross-country tank moves and filing dispatches. Yesterday I took another grueling ride but nowhere did I run into a heavy fight. There were only sporadic nests of enemy resistance which usually quit after the first few minutes of shooting.

It's a blitzkrieg in reverse, mainly along key roads. Patton's army shows no signs of slowing up nor does the weary Wehrmacht exhibit any evidences of bucking up and rallying for a major battle.

The fact is that Patton is now within striking distance of Belgium and is forcing the Germans to yield France without doing very much about it.

Because a radio commentator caught a glimpse from a train window of a new-born colt standing in the corral of an abattoir, the government's war fund is hundreds of thousands of dollars richer. The commentator arranged for the colt to be saved from slaughter and turned over to his radio station and auctioned it off over the air for War Bonds.

WAR BRINGS DEVASTATION TO ISLE OF SAIPAN

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

SAIPAN ISLAND, the Marianas, Sept. 1.—People are war's first victims, but next in line is the land itself.

Month before last Saipan was still a pleasant enough island of well cultivated field and Oriental towns whose people couldn't believe the occasional American air raids from carriers could be followed by anything more serious.

Homes In Ruins
Here are a few impressions of what war did in Saipan:

Houses are shells. In the towns broken houses are plentiful and expected and do not shock as much as in the country. There little farmhouses, isolated in mountain dales or on rolling hills, are alone in their ruins and therefore have more character, more individuality. It is easier to feel the tragedy that has befallen the owner of a single broken house than it is to feel the tragedy of a whole town.

Besides many of the shattered farmhouses still have life—cows, pigs, goats, chickens with no masters. The cows, particularly, are in trouble finding water.

Cane fields are burned out, blackened stalks lying on the ground or sticking a foot or two into the air. The cane juice cooked into syrup by the fires draws flies which make the fields pest holes.

Crops Rot In Fields
Great fields of vegetables lie rotting. It would have been harvest time on Saipan if war hadn't come. A few of the fields in American-held territory are being harvested by Chamorros gathering food for their people in the civilian internment camp, but most is wasted. There are hundreds of breaks in the narrow gauge railway that used to link the canefields to the Charan Kanoa sugar mill. What the bombs didn't make, the tractors and tanks did as they rode roughshod over the island.

There are the broken tools the people used, broken excarts, trucks, plows, wells, automobiles, boats, shops, bicycles.

There are the broken animals, alive and dead, the gun stunned ox that stood immobile on a beach on D-day, the bull killed by a shell that almost ripped off his hide and left it lying in loose folds around his carcass like a deflated balloon. Saipan eventually may return to its old days. There may be another sugar mill, another school, another hospital. There may be people working in the fields and in the towns. There probably will be. But it will be a long time from now.

USE ONLY HIGH QUALITY LIMA BEANS TO FREEZE

It is easy to prepare lima beans for freezing and the frozen product is delicious. Homemakers in Lawrence County who have facilities for freezing foods should allow space for some lima beans.

The best varieties of lima beans for freezing are the Fordhook (bush bean) or the King of the Garden (pole bean).

Select beans that are at the right stage of maturity for eating. The frozen product will be no better than the beans in their original state.

Shell the beans, discarding the imperfect ones. Sort the beans according to size and take out the large white beans for separate packaging. Blanch the beans in boiling water, 1½ minutes for small beans, 2½ minutes for large beans. Cool the beans promptly in running or ice cold water and drain.

Pick the cool beans into suitable containers, filling to within a half inch from the top. This headspace allows for expansion while freezing. Label the packages and freeze promptly. If they cannot be taken to the freezer at once, keep the package in the coldest part of the refrigerator or pack them in crushed ice.

Frozen lima beans may be cooked as fresh ones. Remove beans from container and drop into boiling water, slightly salted. Use 1 cup of water to 1 pint of beans. Cook beans until tender, season, and serve at once.

Appendicitis causes 15,000 persons to die unnecessarily in the United States every year.

More Miners Vote On Strike

Carry Forward Strike Balloting Despite Government Seizure Action

ABOUT 9,000 MINERS ARE IN IDLENESS

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Mine supervisory employees continued with strike ballots today despite government seizure of ten western Pennsylvania coal pits in an effort to check the spreading walkouts which threaten war vital steel production.

In West Virginia, foremen and supervisors at six mines were scheduled to vote on whether to strike in support of demands for union recognition and collective bargaining rights. Ten more mines will vote tomorrow and another 40 next week.

Sixteen mines in Pennsylvania already are closed, although President Roosevelt directed seizure only of ten owned by Ford Collieries, Curtisville, Pa., and the Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal company, Indiana, Pa., where the strikes began two weeks ago.

Estimate 9,000 Miners Idle

An estimated 9,000 miners now are idle with a resultant loss of 70,000 tons of coal. Mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky are involved in the forthcoming strike ballots and others soon may be scheduled in Alabama.

In Pittsburgh, John McAlpine, president of the supervisory employees unit of district 50, an adjunct of John L. Lewis' big United Mine Workers Union, declined comment on the government action until he had received "official notice."

McAlpine refused to indicate whether the strikers would return to work Monday as directed by Acting Secretary of the Interior Abe Fortas. The secretary of interior was directed to take possession of the mines of the two companies.

"These mines will be opened for work on Monday morning and every man is expected to be back on the job," Fortas said. "The mines cannot produce coal while the supervisory employees are on strike. The government is determined to act vigorously and promptly to insure the continued production of coal essential to war production."

Sanctions Hinted

The president's executive order hinted that sanctions, such as revocation of draft deferments and blacklisting of strikers from further employment, might be used if the walkout persists.

It was the 20th time during the war that Mr. Roosevelt has directed government seizure of property because of labor disputes. It was the fourth instance in which coal mines were involved.

Fortas declared that more than 200,000 tons of coal critically needed for war purposes already has been lost because of strikes in mines of the two companies seized by the government. He said some steel plants have less than a week's supply of high grade fuel on hand. All of the mines involved produce this metallurgical fuel.

Heath S. Clark of Indiana, Pa., president of the Rochester & Pittsburgh coal concern, was appointed federal operating manager for the company's mines while Emory M. Ford of Detroit, president of Ford Collieries, was named to a similar capacity to the seized mines of his concern.

OAK STREETERS HAVE REUNION

Former Pupils And Teachers Gather For Dinner At Epworth Church Friday Eve

Former pupils and teachers of the Oak street school to the number of more than 100 gathered for their third annual reunion, which was in the form of a dinner, in the Epworth Methodist church Thursday evening, the event proving a most enjoyable one.

After the opening ceremonies by President Walter C. DeArment, which included the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, and the invocation by C. W. Herman Hess, Charles E. Allen was introduced as master-of-ceremonies.

President DeArment welcomed the former teachers and students, and called upon Miss Iretta V. Dart, for many years the principal of the Oak street school, who recalled the many happy days she had spent watching the young people in her community growing up to become respected citizens of the community.

Under the direction of John H. Wilson, a comedy skit was presented, which proved a hilarious event. During the course of the program solo numbers were rendered by Mrs. Opal Battley Cornelius and Mrs. Helen Allen Reynolds. Pep singing was led by Lloyd Hammill, with Mrs. Cornelius at the piano.

Seven former teachers were present and were remembered with flowers, with Miss Dart receiving a lovely corsage.

Election of officers at the close of the program resulted in the officers who have served during the past year being re-elected. They are: president, Walter C. DeArment; vice president, Charles E. Allen, and secretary, Mrs. Anna Fry Martin.

It was decided to have a mid-winter meeting of the alumni at the school house during the month of February.

TIP-LAYER RASPBERRIES NOW FOR FUTURE PLANTS

Black raspberries and most varieties of purple cane raspberries may be readily propagated at this season by tip-layering or "tipping down."

It is poor economy to take new plants from a patch unless it is known to be disease-free, since severe injury and loss of plants before the new planting reaches full bearing age may result if disease is present. Certified disease-free stock is available from several sources.

Tip-layering may be done in late August and early September. When ends of the cane have elongated into a "rat-tail" bearing small and somewhat curled leaves, they are in proper condition for tipping down. The tip may also be clipped but these characteristics are not essential in determining the time for layering.

The operation consists of opening a hole 4 to 5 inches deep with hoe or spade, pointing the cane down with the tip in the bottom of the hole, while earth is replaced and firmed with the foot. Or a spade or trowel may be forced straight in the ground and pushed to one side, making an opening to one side, making an opening to one side, making an opening to one side.

Tips are not all in proper condition for layering at the same time so more than one trip may be needed to secure the greatest number of plants possible. Tipped plants are severed from the mother cane in the early spring.

BACKGROUND IMPORTANT IN FURNISHING ROOM

When furnishing a room, consider the background that includes the walls, ceiling, floor, and woodwork. Choose a background that harmonizes best in color, design, and texture with the furnishings.

Generally background colors are either warm or all cool ones. Warm colors seem to be kind to furnishings not at their best while cool colors show them at their worst. The floor is the darkest color and provides a base for the furnishings. Walls are lighter than the floor and ceiling still lighter. If you wish to vary this order, consider the effect desired. For example, a ceiling darker than the walls makes the ceiling appear lower. This might be desirable in a room with a high ceiling but not good in a room with a low one.

Backgrounds that appear to be plain are more restful in the average home than are decorated ones. Decorated walls usually are reserved for large rooms, such as ballrooms, for halls, or for rooms in which the tip 4 or 5 inches where it can be held in place to firm the soil.

Tips are not all in proper condition for layering at the same time so more than one trip may be needed to secure the greatest number of plants possible. Tipped plants are severed from the mother cane in the early spring.

three-fourths of the background and furnishing surfaces plain.

Homemakers who find backgrounds unsatisfactory can lessen the pattern in rooms in several ways. Then can paint figured wall-papers with plain colors, use plain slip covers, or remove small useless accessories and pieces of furniture or group these together as large units. Old linoleum can be painted to cover up figures as well as worn places.

CHECK WHEAT CAREFULLY FOR STINKING SMUT BALLS

Farmers are urged to check carefully as they clean their wheat for signs of stinking smut. Wheat grains that are infected are shorter than normal and are filled with millions of black smut spores.

One single grain carries sufficient smut spores to infect several bushels of wheat. Stinking smut not only reduces the yield of wheat, but its presence in any quantity renders the grain unfit for use as flour.

Treating seed wheat with a half-ounce of New Improved Ceresan per bushel before planting will prevent loss from stinking smut. The wheat should be treated at least a day before planting, but can be held as long as 6 to 8 months after being treated.

If wheat is found heavily infected with smut, it must be thoroughly fanned over a cleaner with a strong wind draft to remove the smut balls before treating. Seed treating, in addition to smut control, usually pays for itself in reducing seedling blights that may be destructive.

It is advisable to treat wheat if any smut is found or if in doubt, since the seed can become contaminated by contact with smut-contaminated machinery or bags.

See Congress Agreement On Postwar Move

Believe George Demobilization Bill To Get Approval Of House And Senate

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Speedy agreement by the House and Senate on the George postwar demobilization bill was predicted today as Congress strove to complete action on peacetime reconversion legislation and recess until after the November election.

Rep. Doughton (D) N. C. and Sen. George (D) Ga., chairmen of the House and Senate conferees respectively, said differences in the bill could be ironed out "within two or three days." The Senate measure was passed yesterday by the House with extensive amendments.

Another piece of postwar reconversion legislation was expected to consume more time, however, in conference. The Colmer surplus property bill, which establishes the machinery for the disposal of an estimated 60 to 100 billion dollars in excess war goods, was radically revised by the Senate following House passage.

Recess Over Labor Day
Both houses were scheduled to recess today over Labor Day and House Majority Leader McCormack said no business would be transacted in the lower chamber before September 7. Senator Majority Leader Barkley indicated, however, that an attempt would be made in the upper house to pass the Hayden road authorization bill, a postwar measure appropriating one billion 950 million dollars to match state expenditures for a three-year period when peace returns.

The House showed a sudden burst of speed in approving the George bill late yesterday afternoon after having voted down numerous amendments designed to liberalize it. As passed by the House it differs considerably from the Senate measure, largely in provisions stricken out by the House Ways and Means committee.

Attempts to write into the bill a

Federal standard of unemployment compensation of $20 a week maximum for jobless war workers were overwhelmingly defeated. Only one important amendment was approved, a proposal to restore to the bill a Senate provision establishing a 12-member advisory board to consult with the director of war mobilization, whose powers are continued under the bill for a year after the war.

"I feel very strongly," he stated, "that all Federal civilian employees should be covered by unemployment compensation. I also believe that true hardship cases among war workers should be aided after the war by the government so that they and their families can be returned to their homes. Some provision should also be made for Federal coordination of retraining and reemployment efforts by the states and the director of war mobilization should be given authority to issue directives to government war agencies."

Reveal Huge Nazi Losses Since D-Day

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander, reported to the world Thursday that the Germans have suffered 400,000 war casualties in France since D-day and that at least 46 mighty Nazi army divisions have been smashed or destroyed.

Eisenhower's report, released by the war department in Washington, was a sensational review of the lightning progress of the invasion forces as they sweep across France and on to Berlin. It was the most detailed report the supreme commander has ever made and disclosed the invincible power of the allied forces backed up by the munitions from home.

Highlights of Eisenhower's report are:

1. The Germans have suffered "more than" 400,000 casualties since D-day, including upwards of 200,000 prisoners of war.

2. At least 46 Nazi divisions—more than two-thirds of the original defending force in the west—have been knocked out of action or severely mauled.

3. The Luftwaffe has lost 2,378 planes destroyed in the air, 1,167 destroyed on the ground, 1,028 damaged in the air and 270 "probably" destroyed.

4. The German navy has lost 300 vessels of all classes sunk or heavily damaged.

5. Upwards of 1,300 Nazi tanks have been destroyed or captured, 20,000 motor transports destroyed or captured, and huge quantities of large guns and weapons and munitions of all types knocked out of the war.

Eisenhower reported, too, on allied and American losses in the battles, and emphasized the tremendous consumption of war materials in the French campaign.

He reported that the allied air force has lost 3,000 planes since D-day and has consumed the equivalent of 225 more in replacement parts.

In the first 70 days of fighting, U. S. ground forces required 900 tanks to replace battle losses, 2,400 automatic rifles, 1,750 quarter ton trucks, 1,500 mortars and 83,000 miles of field wire.

Not All Car Dealers May Give Warranties

Unauthenticated Guarantees Will Be Prosecuted, Price Panel
Board Says

Used car dealers who do not maintain a repair shop may give a warranty when they sell if they have arrangements with a repair shop to take care of any guaranteed car, and if these arrangements have been approved by the district OPA office in Pittsburgh, at the recommendation of the local price panel board, the board announced today.

This regulation extends to dealers only, not to individuals. Private sellers can charge only the "as is" prices. A dealer is defined as one who is engaged wholly or in part in buying, selling and repairing cars, and who maintains a place of business for the display, sale and reconditioning of those cars.

Persons who can't qualify because they don't have such a place may be approved in writing by the OPA district office if they show enough evidence of carrying on a business, the board stated.

Dealers who do not have either a repair shop or arrangements with a repair shop can charge only the "as is" prices that individuals charge. Anyone found violating these regulations will be called before the board and will be required to refund the overcharge, it is announced.

S-Sgt. Humphrey Wounded In France

Local Soldier Now Recovering In English Hospital, He Informs
His Mother

Word has been received by Mrs. Louise G. Onasch of 428 Hiram way from the war department informing her that her son, S. Sgt. William J. Humphrey, aged 26 years, was wounded in France on August 11.

At the same time, she has also received a letter from him, written from a hospital in England, stating that he is recovering nicely from his wounds there.

He has been in service since May 5, 1941, and has been overseas since October, 1942. He received his expert infantryman's medal soon after arriving overseas. He was serving with the 29th division, which took a big part in driving the Nazis out of Normandy.

Rescuers Reach First Body Of Mine Victims

BELLAIRE, O., Sept. 1.—(INS)—Rescue workers on Thursday found the first of 66 bodies of miners trapped in the Powhatan mine when the pit was swept by fire last July 5.

The body was found in the No. 7 left entry and was tentatively identified as Virgil Newkirk, 55.

Rescuers said they expected to find the other 65 bodies in the No. 7 right entry, but that it may take a week before they are all located.

The body found today was located 40 feet from a point where a three-inch hole had been drilled through a hill in an attempt to give the trapped miners fresh air, water and food.

When the Glenns Ferry (Id.) ration board awarded a housewife extra sugar for canning, she returned the favor by presenting the clerks with a juicy berry pie.

Every mail brings more military ballots into the office of William A. Eakin, chief clerk to the county commissioners and from now until the middle of November the ballots will probably be a part of the daily mail deliveries.

In addition, several hundred cards have arrived, these being cards filled out by men and women in camps asking for ballots. These have to be checked to see if they have already been sent. If they haven't, a ballot will be mailed to each.

About 40 ballots have been returned due to improper addresses. A check is being made of these names to get the proper addresses.

Babson Gives Advice On Small Sustenance Farms

By ROGER W. BABSON
Copyright—1941—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 1.—I have received numerous letters asking advice as to what part of the United States is best for a small sustenance farm of five acres. Some are from people who are about to retire on a pension; while others are from the wives of army officers who are now in the service. These people are not intending to operate commercial farms. They merely want a place, close to a town or small city, where they can raise enough food to feed them and be independent. Then their only money expense will be for taxes and the cost of clothes, church offerings, recreation, etc.

Selecting a State
In addition to answering these letters I am passing my four conclusions on to my five million weekly readers. My first conclusion is that soil is of prime importance but that every state in the Union has one or more pockets of excellent soil. This means that you, yourself, can select the state in which to live. My second conclusion is that different good "soil pockets" should be considered according to your health, age, culture, recreational and other factors involved; also according to where your relatives are located. Hence, every reader can for himself select a state in which he should be happy; but needs help in selecting the state's special "soil pocket" best suited to his needs.

This means that, after selecting a state in which you desire to locate, you should write to its agricultural department. Address the letter to the state's capital city where the department has its headquarters. Explain to the department just what you want to do, how much money you have to spend, etc. Tell them your age and of what your family consists. Be sure to explain that you wish only a sustenance farm and that you do not wish to go into commercial farming. Then ask their advice as to which part of their state will best fill your needs. You can continue to correspond until you find the right location.

Choosing the Final Spot
Be sure also to ask for a list of the localities in the state where either the state or the federal government has an agricultural experimental station. You needn't roll them the reason for asking this question, but you need the answer in order to check their answers with your other questions. As a rule, these experimental stations are located in the good "soil pockets" having the best temperature and rainfall conditions. Therefore, you should try to locate in one of the good "soil pockets" which has been selected for an experimental station. This is my third conclusion.

There, however, is another even more important reason why you should be near one of these stations: You are to be more or less a novice as to farming. Yet, the raising of crops and live stock is fast becoming a science. By knowing what to plant, when to plant, how to plant and the best methods of fighting insects, fungus, etc., you can cut your work in half and double your crops. By being located close to an experimental station, you both enjoy good soil and you are in a position to visit the station and ask questions and get very valuable help. Hence, my fourth and final conclusion is that you should buy your five acres as near as possible to an experimental station.

Buy Something You Can Always Sell
One other thought: The time may come when you or your family will want to sell your little farm. Such homesteads are, as a rule, like most everything else in this world—easier to buy than they are to sell. This rule, however, usually does not apply to locations close to an experimental station. If it directly adjoins government land the government may be a possible purchaser at a good price when you desire to sell. Hence, by locating according to these conclusions you are not only sure of good soil and valuable free help to get started right, but are pretty sure to have a fair market for your place whenever you wish to sell it.

Artillery Barrage Against Britain

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The German DNB agency announced today that since 1:35 o'clock this morning a heavy artillery barrage had been levelled against British invasion forces and military centers in southern England.

(Editor's note: Earlier this morning, British sources disclosed that German long-range guns had peppered the channel coast with a heavy four-hour barrage. Considerable damage was caused by the attack, the British reported.)

In 1942, the first war year that comparable figures were made available by the bureau of mines, production of coal in the United States was 580 million tons, Russia was second with 247 millions and Britain not far behind with 215, 900,000 tons.

Truman's Speech Shows Keynote Of Campaign

LAMAR, Mo., Sept. 1.—(INS)—The keynote the Democratic presidential campaign may follow became apparent today after Sen. Harry S. Truman's acceptance of his party's vice presidential nomination. The Missouri senator warned the nation against selecting as president "a man who lacks experience" or entrusting "the negotiation of the peace of the world to those who are not familiar with world affairs."

A crowd of 10,000 gathered under the glare of lights to witness the colorful ceremonies at which Truman formally was notified of his nomination by Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, last night and to hear the acceptance address from the courthouse steps in Lamar, the town where the nominee was born.

Praise Of President

Accepting the nomination with "humility and a prayer for guidance" in his opening words, Truman devoted much of his 18-minute speech to the praise of President Roosevelt.

He gave his running mate "much of the credit" for the "greatest succession of victories in the annals of warfare" and voiced high praise of America's fighting men around the world.

"Their unequalled valor under the greatest leadership ever given a fighting force guarantees the victory," Truman said.

Declaring that "victory is now in sight" and that the Roosevelt administration was preparing for the "peaceful structure of the world."

from the period that began with lend-lease through the series of conferences among allied leaders, Truman warned that peace may demand sudden decisions, adding:

"The welfare of this nation and its future, as well as the peace of the whole world depends upon your decision on November 7. You can't afford to take a chance. You should endorse tried and experienced leadership—you should reelect Franklin D. Roosevelt president of the United States."

Referring to postwar plans, Truman said the administration intends to sell or lease war plants on "fair terms" and to "create employment for our fighting men and our men and women war workers."

Report Duchess' Condition Fine

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The Duchess of Windsor was reported in "excellent condition" today at Roosevelt hospital where she had her appendix removed yesterday by Dr. Henry W. Cave, assisted by Dr. Lay Martin, of Baltimore.

The duchess recovered so quickly from the effects of the operation, the hospital reported, that she had tea yesterday afternoon with the Duke of Windsor.

The duke stayed overnight at the hospital in an adjoining room, and remained by his wife's side until she was out of danger.

New Developments In Scranton Case Are Now Hinted

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 1.—(INS)—Federal court attaches refused today to discuss the sudden appearance of Special Assistant U. S. District Attorney F. Kirk Maddix in Scranton, where a grand jury was investigating "certain matters" in the middle Pennsylvania District Court.

Maddix, a special representative of U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle, failed to throw light on his unscheduled appearance but there were indications that new developments had bobbed up in the two-month-old inquiry. Special Assistant M. H. Goldstein, directing the investigation, refused to discuss the case.

Maddix arrived in Scranton only a few hours after naval officials launched an inquiry into the suicide of Lt. (jg) J. Donald Reifsnnyder, one-time Scranton lawyer, two days ago shortly before he was slated to testify again before the jury.

Heroic Frenchman Watches Germans Lay Field Mines, Cuts Fuses

WITH FRENCH FORCES NORTH OF LYON, Aug. 30.—(Delayed)—(INS)—A group of Germans, preparing to pull out of an airfield where they had been "producing" Messerschmidts, wired the whole area with barrels of TNT before racing away.

What the Germans didn't know was that a member of the French Maquis watched the proceedings from the hangar roof.

The Frenchman waited until the Germans were out of sight before descending from his lofty perch and racing right into the TNT nest, cutting the fuse with 14 inches of the first detonator.

The Maquis preserved the fuse in its original state as a souvenir of French honor.

Former Resident Missing In Action

Sgt. Earl Berquist of Ann Arbor, Mich., who at one time made his home here with his parents, the late Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Berquist, has been missing over Germany since August 6. He was radio operator on a B-24 Liberator bomber.

Word that he was missing was received by his sister, Mrs. Merwin Campbell of Pinckney, Mich., and was received here by Mrs. Edward C. Hackett of Butler avenue.

Before entering service, Sgt. Berquist was employed at the Willow Run bomber plant, Ypsilanti, Mich.

Wants Newspapers And Radio Available For Nazi Prisoners

Senator Thinks Nation Is Missing
Chance To 'De-Nazify' Germans Held Prisoner

By FRANK B. ALLEN
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Sen. Homer Ferguson (R) Mich., called on the government today to make newspapers and radio fully accessible to Axis war prisoners in the hope of "de-Nazifying" them.

Declaring he is "fearful of any peace that can be made" with Germany's younger generation remaining Nazi in thought, Ferguson said: "It is a sad thing that we are not giving Nazi prisoners in America information to teach them something of our philosophy of life and government that they could take back to their homeland."

Ferguson disclaimed any desire to "coddle" prisoners. But in the interests of future peace, he wants the several hundred thousand prisoners to "be exposed" to democracy and freedom of thought.

He declared the war department now makes no effort to provide newspapers and radio—which he thinks would be the best agents through which to demonstrate to the Nazis the values of the American way. The prisoners can subscribe to newspapers—but don't. They can buy radios—but Ferguson, on a visit to a camp, found army officers had set the radio to get a single station—Canadian. Prisoners thought they were hearing a propaganda outlet, he said.

The army—or some other agency—should make American newspapers, including German-language if they are wanted, and radios fully available to prisoners, Ferguson declared.

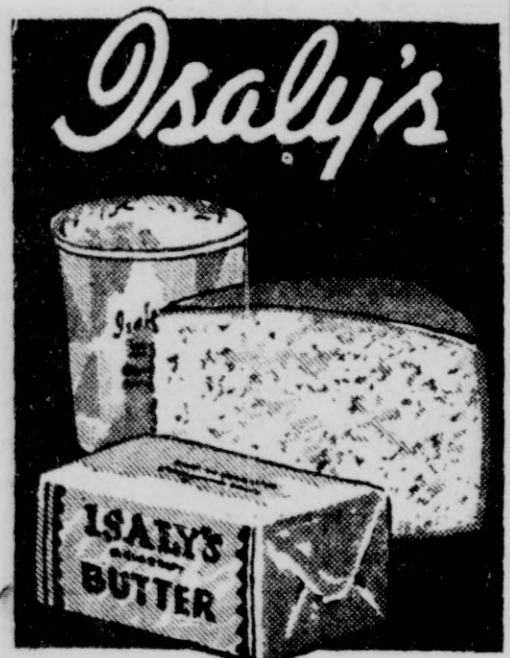

"They should make every opportunity to learn they are being defeated—and by democracy," he said. Last month Ferguson and two fellow members of the senate war investigating committee, Sen. Ralph P. Brewster (R) Me. and Sen. Harold H. Burton (R) Ohio, interviewed German prisoners at two camps producing woodpulp.

They found the Germans arrogant, and certain that Nazism will succeed. One saw no reason for speeding up pulp production at the camp for increased pay, "for your American money won't be any good that the war, anyway." Contempt for democracy was apparent, they said.

"It is significant that religion is practically eliminated among these men," Ferguson said, reporting that not more than one in 10 professed any religion.

"These thousands and thousands of men are going back to Germany without tasting battle defeat. Unless we give them a substitute for Nazism, they will go back as still whole-hearted Nazis."

Sixty per cent of all soldiers are war bond buyers, according to the war department.

Pittsburgh Deaths Are 'Murder-Suicide'

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Authorities described as "murder-suicide" the pistol deaths of Mrs. Alberta Hughes Kaufman, 39-year-old divorcee, and Frank Eastley, 58-year-old veteran east end policeman, whose bodies were found in the woman's apartment last night.

Police theorized that Eastley first pumped three bullets into Mrs. Kaufman, who has an 18-year-old son in the army, and then shot himself through the head. The bodies were found in the bathroom of the apartment by a sister of the dead woman. The sister and her son and another youth had just returned from a vacation at Atlantic City. No note was found, authorities said.

The sister of the woman told detectives that Eastley visited Mrs. Kaufman many times and that on several occasions the couple had come to blows.

THANK YOU, MA'AM
SPOKANE, Wash.—(INS)—Second Lieut. Frances Sandstrom, one of the first nurses to evacuate wounded by air from the French invasion coast, commended the men in a letter to her mother in Spokane.

"What impressed me the most," she wrote, "was the way they acted after they were removed from the planes in England. They all looked back and thanked me as they were being carried away. Only American G.I.'s would do that."

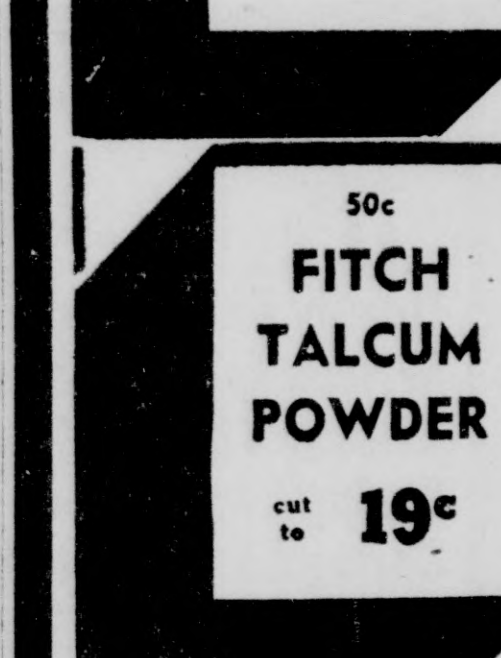

He declared the war department now makes no effort to provide newspapers and radio—which he thinks would be the best agents through which to demonstrate to the Nazis the values of the American way. ## State Republican Women Planning Membership Drive

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women was ready today to launch an intensive membership drive with the aid of Gov. Edward Martin, the state-wide candidates and a caravan of party leaders.

Mrs. John Y. Huber, of Haverford, president, said the primary objective was the enrollment of 10,000 women voters but that convalescing of legislators would highlight the tours.

"Working conferences of congressional, senatorial and legislative groups will discuss issues and plan selling methods," she stated. The campaign will open at Harrisburg September 20, she said. The delegation will go to Philadelphia for a second rally September 29 and appear in Scranton October 10 and Williamsport October 11. Erie was slated for one of the western sites.

Mrs. Huber explained, but the date has not been fixed. A sixth meeting place will be selected later.

PREPAREDNESS
SEASIDE, Ore.—(INS)—A Seaside man was arrested for intoxication. He was jailed and paid a fine. A few days later, he stopped the police chief on the street and gave him ten dollars just in case he was jailed again. The next morning the chief found him back in the clinic.

Following a meeting at Harrisburg, Mrs. H. Ober Hess, chairman, said the "juniors" would participate with Mrs. Edna Carroll, vice-chairman of the Republican state committee, "to forward the campaign by setting up county organizations to work with the 18 to 38 age group."

NEW WAY FOUND TO GET VACATION

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Policeman Herman Sasch of suburban Highland Park started an enforced two-week vacation today one ordered by his superior officers. Having recently achieved a notable success in removing a squirrel that was determined to remain in a chimney, he naturally was the man chosen to rout a skunk that had established itself under the porch of Mrs. Roy Du Chateau's home. Sasch took along a .22-caliber rifle but, alas, the skunk fired first. When Sasch looked again under the porch, the skunk fired twice more. The policeman certainly deserves a citation, for he refused to retreat until he had killed the skunk, but when he went back to the station to make out his report, he was told: "Never mind anything! Just go home and take off that uniform—and your vacation starts tomorrow morning."

Philadelphia On 48-Hour Work Week

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The nation's second largest war production center—the Philadelphia-Camden area—began a 48-hour work-week today in compliance with a war manpower commission edict.

Approximately 28,000 essential workers for both war vital and locally needed industries are expected to be produced by the stepped-up schedule, the WMC estimated.

Regional director Frank L. McNamee asserted that the 48-hour week was ordered only as a last resort in an effort to halt the piling up of unfilled war orders throughout the area.

Many industries—even those already working 48 hours or more weekly—have fallen behind schedules from one to six months, he said, because of the manpower shortage.

The manpower situation, he explained, was further aggravated by workers trying to "reconvert" to peacetime jobs on the theory that the war is already won.

Following a meeting at Harrisburg, Mrs. H. Ober Hess, chairman, said the "juniors" would participate with Mrs. Edna Carroll, vice-chairman of the Republican state committee, "to forward the campaign by setting up county organizations to work with the 18 to 38 age group."

Following a meeting at Harrisburg, Mrs. H. Ober Hess, chairman, said the "juniors" would participate with Mrs. Edna Carroll, vice-chairman of the Republican state committee, "to forward the campaign by setting up county organizations to work with the 18 to 38 age group."

He declared the war department now makes no effort to provide newspapers and radio—which he thinks would be the best agents through which to demonstrate to the Nazis the values of the American way. The prisoners can subscribe to newspapers—but don't. They can buy radios—but Ferguson, on a visit to a camp, found army officers had set the radio to get a single station—Canadian. Prisoners thought they were hearing a propaganda outlet, he said.

They found the Germans arrogant, and certain that Nazism will succeed. One saw no reason for speeding up pulp production at the camp

Nazi Defense On French Soil Now Shattered

By CLARK LEE

(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 1.—Except for parts of the Pas de Calais robot bomb site area, there is no more organized German resistance on French soil and nothing can stop a victorious American drive eastward.

Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First U. S. Army has crossed the Meuse river and the path through Belgium to the German border appears wide open.

Exemplifying the enemy's breakdown, prisoners are being taken now at the rate of 2,000 daily and the Nazis are so demoralized and disorganized that their chances of defending any intervening front is considered highly improbable.

Pursuit, Not Battle

With the Yanks driving hard to encompass the Ardennes forest gateway into Germany itself, an official First Army spokesman said: "It is more of a pursuit than a battle."

First Army staff officers disclosed that as the Americans thrust forward into Belgium, forward units of the interior are speeding their progress by carefully timed blows behind the Nazis' backs.

These patriotic forces withhold their attacks until the Yanks are close enough to give them support when needed. Then they strike swiftly and savagely.

Take 115,519 Prisoners

Since D-Day, the U. S. First Army alone has taken 115,519 prisoners. The First Army spokesman pointed out that remnants of the German 7th Army which thought they could retreat directly into Germany after their double escape from the Falaise and Seine river traps have been bitterly disappointed.

"They can't possibly win the race to Germany now," the spokesman said. "Because the American Third Army has passed Chalons-sur-Marne and has reached Vitry-Le-Francois."

These drives of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's forces have blocked the German routes from France directly into Germany and have forced them to detour through Belgium where the Yanks are pursuing them as fast as they can.

Washington Roundup

(International News Service)

Word comes from Washington today that highly responsible American officials believe Germany may have discovered a new explosive capable of greater destructive power than anything the world has ever seen but is unable to control it as yet. Five recent mysterious explosions in German-occupied territory in Europe are believed to have been caused accidentally by the inability of the Germans to control the new mechanical monster. Officials believe that if the explosive they probably would destroy entire cities with it.

An explosive situation of a different nature meanwhile is shaping up against in the coal industry. Mine supervisors employees are continuing with strike ballots today despite government seizure of ten Western Pennsylvania coal pits in an effort to check the spreading walkouts which threaten war vital steel production.

Much of the Washington news is coming from Capitol Hill. Sen. Russell (D) Ga., says he will battle against postwar reduction of taxes until some of the huge public debt has been retired. Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., calls on the government to make newspapers and radio fully accessible to Axis war prisoners in the hope of "de-Nazifying" them. And Rep. Jenkins (R) Ohio, G.O.P. congressional food study committee chairman, asks prompt relaxation of food rationing controls following Germany's defeat.

The OPA announces prune juice, all varieties and colors of dried beans and apple, grape and peach butter will be ration free starting Sunday. Points are cut on canned mixed vegetables but are increased on pineapple juice and tomato juice.

SURVEY OF CITIES SHOWS POSTWAR WORK PLANNED

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—If New Castle follows the trend in other cities in this group, it will plan a comprehensive postwar program of public works that will involve an expenditure of $14.10 per resident a year for a period of five years after hostilities cease, helping to create jobs to cushion the transition period and catch up on needed improvements. The outlay would total $710,000 a year.

The per capita figure, based on a survey of 871 cities made for the Municipal Year Book, is the average given by the cities in New Castle's group that reported programs in preparation for postwar reconstruction.

An examination of the plans prepared by cities reveals that first consideration is being given to streets and sewers. Next comes sewage disposal plants. In third place is public buildings, especially schools, followed by hospitals, police and fire stations, health centers, municipal garages, museums, water systems, airports and playgrounds.

With respect to financing the yearbook points out that the general improvement in the financial condition of cities indicates that they can bear a major share of the financing of their own postwar capital improvements.

Protracted Fight
On War Surplus
Seen In Capital

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Senate and house conferees on surplus war property disposal legislation today faced the prospect of sitting at the conference table for many grueling days.

At the end of the second day, through which groups stood adamant along house versus senate lines, conferees expressed doubt that they could "get together" in 10 days.

No. One Issue—On which many other provisions hinge—is whether a board or a single administrator should head the program in which an estimated 100 billion dollars worth of surplus goods will be disposed of.

The house overwhelmingly rejected the proposal for a board and adhered in general to recommendations of surplus war property administrator W. L. Clayton.

The senate, by voice vote, turned down an amendment by Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, for a single administrator, and stuck to the committee-written provision for an eight-member board to control policies and employ an administrative director.

Morrell Prevents Fatal Fight In Jail At Mercer

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 1.—(INS)—Sheriff William Morrell today praised William Morrell, 21-year-old orphan awaiting sentence in connection with one of three deaths at the Everett Wilson farm, for averting what might have been a fatal fight between two prisoners at the Mercer jail.

Sheriff Courtney said Morrell disarmed Herman Humphrey, of Farrell, when he started to attack a fellow prisoner with a knife. As Morrell attempted to quiet the pair, however, Sheriff Courtney added Humphrey broke loose and struck Charles Rivers, also of Farrell, with a broken bottle and inflicted a deep face laceration.

Morrell is expected to be the chief estate witness against his former sweetheart, Janice Graham, when she is placed on trial the week of September 11 for the triple deaths.

Senator Will Oppose Early Tax Reduction

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Sen. Richard Russell (D) Ga., said today he will battle against postwar reduction of taxes until some of the huge public debt has been retired.

"We cannot afford to permanently carry a debt of 260 to 300 billion dollars," said Russell. "We ought to plan to cut it down."

"The fact is that the civilian population has made no real sacrifices during this war. Living has been for most people at a higher level than ever before."

Russell, a member of the senate appropriations committee, pointed out that interest charges on the public debt alone will run from five to seven billion dollars a year.

"Such a sum of money was considered enormous in the days of the WPA," said Russell. "Every one knows, too, that we must maintain a bigger army and navy in peace time than previously. We must have high taxes if we are to cut down the debt."

The public debt has risen rapidly with enormous war expenditures. Now past the 200 billion dollar mark, some legislators think that it may reach 300 billions before the war against the Axis has been finished.

Expect Expense Reduction

A sharp reduction in federal expenditures is anticipated if Germany is defeated this year. Because huge sums had been unspect by war and navy departments, the appropriations of the present session totaled 67 billion as compared to 114 billion the previous year.

Even a 50 per cent drop in expenditures after Germany is defeated, however, would leave a federal deficit for the year on the basis of past receipts. A drop in expenditures also means a drop in tax receipts.

Congress now has before it many proposals for huge increases in expenditures. These include a proposed billion 950 million dollar road program, a half billion dollar rivers and harbors program and a flood control program of nearly a billion dollars.

While congress rejected proposals for federal grants for unemployment compensation for war workers totalling billions, the effort is expected to be renewed in the next congress. The "G. I. bill of rights" for veterans includes benefits which will cost billions eventually.

Local Drive For Labor Continues

Recruitment for local industrial plants is still under way at the United States Employment Service office, George R. Gettings, manager, said today.

Representatives from several New Castle industries are in the office this morning interviewing the large number of applicants. At the present time 300 women are needed to be trained as machine operators, according to the employment office.

Drive On Brest
Being Resumed

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(INS)—An all-out Allied ground push got under way again today against Brest, timed to coincide with a new blistering of the Nazi-held French port by Ninth Air Force marauders.

Official air force spokesmen announced that the B-26's scored direct hits on heavy gun emplacements and, in co-operation with dive-bombing squadrons, obtained "excellent results."

Contracts Awarded
For City Repair
Work By Council

Contracts for repair work to be done for the city were awarded this morning at the third meeting of the City Council at City Hall this week.

Andrew Pfahles received the contract for the repair of the cement works of the sewage disposal plant. His price was $2,890. Eugene Scanlon was awarded the contract for the repair of County Line street, at a cost of $4,060, and the contract for the repaving of a part of Terrace avenue was given to the New Castle Duntile company, whose bid was $4,225.

Clearing out equipment which is no longer usable to the city, Council will be talking bids for some machinery from all departments. Lists of the equipment will be advertised later.

Three meetings will be in order next week also, when Council will meet on Labor Day, its regular day for meeting, to adjourn until Tuesday. Unless a quorum is present, a special call will have to be issued or no other meeting may be held until the following Monday.

Bricker Planning Pennsylvania Tour

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican vice-presidential nominee, will make a whirlwind campaign tour of Pennsylvania in 48 hours, GOP State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor announced today.

He said Bricker would speak at Erie and Pittsburgh September 19 and then will speed eastward to Harrisburg where he will address state capital employees on the state house esplanade at noon September 20. Later in the day he will wind up his Pennsylvania campaign with an address at Wilkes-Barre.

Plans Completed For Refrigeration Course

Plans for the refrigeration course to be offered at the vocational school on Lutton street are almost completed, according to George R. Gettings, manager of the United States Employment Service office.

Places are still open for a few more to enroll in the evening class. Developed to train people in servicing refrigerators now that new ones are non-existent, the course will start something within the next two or three weeks. Those who wish to register may call Mrs. Wilda K. Patterson at the Employment office.

Miss Phillippi To Take Over Home Economics Work

Will Succeed Miss Josephine Simpson As Home Economics Extension Representative

Miss Laura Phillippi of Ligonier, Pa., arrived here today to get acquainted with her duties as home economics extension representative for Lawrence county. She will succeed Miss Josephine Simpson, who will leave September 9 for New York City, where she will enter a new line of work in the home economics field.

Miss Phillippi will take up her active duties here on September 11. She is a graduate of Indiana State Teachers college, Indiana, Pa., and has been engaged in home economics work for the past four years, having taught home economics in the schools at Warfordsburg, Fulton county, during that period.

Miss Simpson, who has been extension representative here for the past 14 months, will be associated with the public health committee of the Paper Cup and Container Institute, representing 15 of the country's largest container corporations, and will be engaged in public relations work as home economist. She will leave here September 9 to take up her new work.

During the time she has been here, Miss Simpson has supervised the work among 18 adult and 14 youth groups in various communities of the county, engaged in food conservation and clothing renovation. Her summer's activities among the Four-H club girls was recently culminated by a county wide Round-Up, which was participated in by a large number of girls.

British Author Sees His Mistake

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(INS)—P. G. Wodehouse, famous British author who was interned by the Nazis in 1940 and who made five broadcasts during his imprisonment, said today in Paris that he had made a "terrible mistake." He added that "it never occurred to me that it would be held against me."

Known for his creation of "Jeeves"—the butler—Wodehouse stated that he "supposed all authors must be half-witted." He explained his reasons for the broadcasts to a London Daily sketch correspondent, saying that he had gotten a number of letters from readers in America and he thought it would be a good idea to answer them by radio talks.

The 63-year old author was located at the Hotel Bristol in Paris.

Fire Levels Barn On North Beaver Township Farm

Fire caused total destruction of a large barn on the farm of C. A. Stewart, on the Mt. Jackson-Petersburg road in North Beaver township, this week.

All livestock in the barn was saved, but 1,400 bushels of corn, wheat and oats, together with a large amount of baled hay, straw and some farm machinery, were destroyed.

C. V. Miller, tenant of the farm, was in the barn at the time the flames were discovered. Cause of the origin of the fire is uncertain, but is believed to have been caused by a defective wire.

The barn was a large one, 98 feet in length. Its loss is partly covered by insurance, Mr. Stewart said.

Rabies can be prevented by controlling the disease in dogs through effective law enforcement.

Governor Dewey Preparing For Campaign Trip

By LEO W. O'BRIEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
PAWING, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Gov. Dewey has made such rapid progress on his September speeches that he will go to New York City Tuesday night or Wednesday morning for a round of conferences with Republican leaders prior to his departure, Sept. 7, for Philadelphia and the opening of his campaign.
The Republican nominee has been working on speeches at his farm here since last Friday, and he has not met with New York state Republican leaders recently.
National Committee Chairman J. Russell Sprague and State Chairman Edwin F. Jackie are expected to be in New York City next week to talk with Governor Dewey before he leaves on his nation-wide tour.
Plans probably will be completed at that time for an intensive Republican drive in New York state. While GOP leaders are confident they can obtain enough votes upstate to carry New York, they are not taking any chances on the loss of the state's 47 electoral votes.
Democratic Claims
Democratic leaders have claimed recently that they will cut into the normal upstate Republican vote by rallying labor to their side in such large cities as Buffalo and Rochester. In the recent state elections, those cities showed substantial Republican tendencies. Both were carried by President Roosevelt in 1940.

Gov. Dewey is reported to have emphasized to party leaders that all his work in other parts of the nation might be nullified if they failed to produce the maximum Republican vote in his home state.
President Roosevelt carried New York on each of the three occasions he ran for president. This year, however, there has been a considerable migration of workers, many of them Democrats, from New York City to war plants in other states.
Gov. Dewey may deliver as many as four or five major speeches in his home state during the closing week of the campaign. He probably will speak twice, at least, in New York City, as well as in Buffalo and possibly Rochester.

The Democrats have succeeded in electing only two presidents who did not carry New York state. They were Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson.

Report 700 Hard Coal Miners Out

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 1.—(INS)—Seven hundred miners employed by the Glen Alden Coal company at the Bliss colliery at nearby Nanticoke went on strike today in a dispute involving wages paid machine loaders.
The strikers, affiliated with local 900 of the United Mine Workers of America, will meet tonight to discuss the walkout.

Cluttered cellars, attics, closets and stairs are breeding places for fires, and may cause falls to those entering the areas. With so much need for the salvage of paper, rubber and other materials, a clean-up of home danger spots will yield needed materials, not missed by the owners but needed in winning the war.

Would Ease Rationing If Germany Quits

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Rep. Jenkins (R) Ohio, GOP congressional food study committee chairman, today called for prompt relaxation of food rationing controls following the collapse of Germany.
"Only such controls should be maintained as will assure the proper and equitable distribution of foodstuffs to all of our citizens," Jenkins asserted.
Jenkins' remarks were made as the OPA removed six items—prune juice, all varieties and colors of dried beans, and apple, grape and peach butter—from the ration list, effective Sunday.

The Ohio Republican, whose committee for many months has been investigating the nation's food picture, explained that the need for rationing is determined on the relationship of production and distribution to consumption.
"Should Cut Ration Control
"In view of that," he said, "and considering reports of huge United Nations food holdings, a complete collapse of the German military forces should pave the way for fewer—if any—ration controls on food in the United States."
Criticism "confusion" and "contradictory edicts of bureaucratic agencies," Jenkins maintained that these "evils" of the food program must be eliminated at the earliest possible moment without any regard to the defeat of Germany.
"Rationing should be limited to as few commodities as possible," he declared, adding that "there is no question" that food consumers and distributors have been "immeasurably harassed by too many government regulations."

In addition to making prune juice, dry beans and the fruit butters ration free, OPA also cut the point value of canned mixed vegetables from ten to five points and reduced seven to 14-ounce sizes of tomato pulp and puree by one to two points.
Point increases on the September chart were pineapple juice, 18-ounce size, from 15 to 25 points; vacuum-packed whole kernel corn, 12 ounce, five instead of three points; tomato juice, seven ounce can, two instead of one point; seven to 10 ounce size, three instead of one point; ten to 14 ounce size, four instead of one point.

Most Retailers Observe Rules On OPA Prices

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Seventy per cent of the 1900 retail food stores surveyed in the 10-county district supervised by the OPA were complying with price control regulations, the Harrisburg district OPA office announced today.
Chief ceiling violations, the office stated, were found on veal, pork, onions, cabbage, lettuce and lemons.

Dieppe Taken By Canadians Is Late Report

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Sept. 1.—Canadian capture of Dieppe without a major battle was reported in a front-line dispatch tonight as Allied troops drove out of captured Verdun toward Metz and the Siegfried line.

With American forces only a handful of miles from both the German and Belgian frontiers, isolation of the entire robot bomb coast of northern France became a matter of hours.
Official headquarters information had placed the Canadians three miles from Dieppe, but a Reuters dispatch from the battle area said that German defenses of the channel coast port, scene of the courageous but costly Commando raid of August, 1942, had collapsed when attacked from the rear and had been taken without a fight.

Warns Battle On Japs May Take Over Year

By RICHARD V. HALLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 1.—Continued exercise of American air superiority in Pacific ocean areas was foreshadowed today in an announcement from Pacific fleet headquarters disclosing another round of practically unopposed smashes against Japanese island bases from the far northern Kuriles to the central Pacific.

Despite demonstrated American aerial supremacy, a warning was voiced by the top-ranking army airman in the Pacific that more than a year of fighting lies ahead against the Japanese since enemy air forces are probably being held in reserve for homeland defense.
Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, whose newly-assumed command of all army air force units in the Pacific, exclusive of Alaska, was revealed by Pacific fleet headquarters, promised intensification of aerial strikes against the enemy but softened optimistic views for a quick ending of the war when he declared:
"We must count on more than a year of hard fighting ahead before the end will be in sight. The Japanese homeland must eventually be occupied and overrun by our forces."

Big Raids In View
Harmon said that European theater air tactics, embodying thousands of planes, are in the offing for the Jap homeland "if necessary."
"If European air tactics are needed," he asserted, "you may expect thousand plane raids."
The latest disclosed aerial strikes against the Japs included raids against Paramushiro in the Kuriles, Iwo Jima in the Volcanos, Yap and Woleai in the western Carolines, Pagan in the Marianas, Mille in the Marshalls and Nauru, Jap phosphate-producing island west of the Gilbert group.
Eleventh AAF Liberators and navy Ventura search planes bombed Paramushiro Sunday night, encountering only meager anti-aircraft.

Seventh AAF Liberators, flying from central Pacific bases, struck twice at Iwo Jima, one of the bulwarks of the enemy homeland defenses, on Monday and Tuesday nights.
Targets on Pagan, where several fires were started, were gun positions.

Will Ask Campaign Against Smith

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The National American Legion will be asked by Detroit Legionnaires to join in a campaign of attrition against Gerald L. K. Smith, it was learned today.
Harry Romer, Smith's vice-presidential nominee on the America First party ticket, charged that "15 per cent of the legion's leaders are the most disloyal Americans in the country."
To this, L. Glen Shields, district commander of the legion replied, "We'll kick Smith out of Michigan. Try the News Want Ads For Results

Why should we let him stay here when other states have kicked him out?"
Shields denounced the America First leader before 300 Michigan legionnaires who voted unanimously to hate his remarks certified for distribution to the 1,750,000 members of the national organization.

Rain Fails To Halt Gridders; First Team Set

Scrimmage Session In Rain Thursday, Then Gridders Tackle Plate Of Chicken

HAR-BRACK HERE WEEK FROM TODAY

Inclement weather Thursday failed to dampen the ardor of the 40 young football candidates at the New Castle high grid camp at Muddy Creek Falls. Two sessions, morning and evening, were indulged in for the afternoon and again today. The boys will break camp Saturday afternoon and after the playing of the annual inter-camp game that will see the first team battling the second and third in a regulation game. The boys will really get in there and "pitch" tomorrow morning about 10 o'clock.

First Team Set
Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh after almost a week at camp has finally hit on his first team and the boys clicked nicely in the rain Thursday afternoon. Bill Walls, the colored fullback, and Bill Andrews, the right-half reeling off nice gains through the second team, "Panella and Flora also made some nice headway when carrying the ball. John Benegas did the signal barking and blocking and turned in a swell performance.

The play of the first team line was exceptionally fine. "Big Boy" Williams the tackle up from Franklin doing a fine job as did Etti and Kulnik, the latter at center. Hesson and Green showed up well at the guard posts on the first team. Bill Jim Garberry and likeable Fred Winner both reserves from last year are slated for the end posts on the starting team and will be understood by Ed Jackson and Richards all four men will see a lot of service this year.

Second Team Good
Bridenbaugh will have a fine set of boys to work with as his second team and here is the way they lined up against the first team yesterday. Ends, Stack and Wynne; tackle, Shaw and Furst; guards, Hill and Hannan; center, Reed; backfield, Sallie, Pakko, Post and Gurguolo. On the third team was the following: Ends, Ferris and Abraham; tackle, McQuiston and Angelo; guards, Allsopp and Raub; center, Stewart; backfield, Dean, Brown, Smith and Stoner.

Another tough day awaits the boys providing the weather is good. So far the boys have gotten a nice break in the weather, the sun not boiling down any day so far this week.

Chicken Dinner Features
Each year in camp on Thursday night the cooks work overtime in setting these steaming plates of chicken done in style and when the boys get through with two scrimmage sessions they are ready to eat. Awe eat they did last night, plenty of chicken, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots, cold slaw, bread, butter and milk and ice cream and cookies.

Every year these cooks get better and better at this chicken business and anybody who got away from

MIGRATORY UPLAND GAME BIRDS

Only such upland game birds as migrate between the United States, Canada and Mexico come under the jurisdiction of the federal government. Hunting regulations based on recommendations of the Fish and Wildlife Service after biological investigations and consultations with state game administrators are formulated by the secretary of the interior.

These, when approved by the president, become the law of the land. The several states may shorten seasons or otherwise modify the regulations but cannot provide longer seasons. The principal species affected by the federal rulings are the Wilson's or jack snipe, woodcock, mourning or turtle dove, white-winged dove and band-tailed pigeon. The shooting of grouse, Hungarian partridges, Bob-Whites and other birds which do not migrate at all or, when they do, travel only short distances, is controlled entirely by the states.

This year, as for several seasons past, the federal regulations provide total protection for the Wilson's snipe. The band-tailed pigeon is confined to Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and the three west coast states, while the white-winged dove is found chiefly in Arizona and Texas. The mourning dove, however, is common throughout most of the United States and the woodcock has a wider range than either of the other doves, so the woodcock and mourning dove are among the upland birds under federal regulation of chief interest to the average hunter.

The mourning dove has been a bone of contention in the north for years, argument developing as to whether he should be classified as a game bird or a song bird. In the southern states he's almost universally given a game bird rating. This year's federal regulations provide almost as many seasons for him as there are states, but in a number of regions he's protected by state laws. Better make certain of the mourning dove's local status before you go hunting him.

In the northern zone of New York and in Wisconsin you can hunt woodcock from Oct. 1 to Oct. 15. In southern New York, Indiana and West Virginia the season extends from Oct. 16 to Oct. 30.

In New Jersey, on Long Island and in Rhode Island it's from Nov. 1 to Nov. 15; Arkansas and Oklahoma, Dec. 1 to Dec. 15; Connecticut, Oct. 25-Nov. 29; Delaware and Maryland, Nov. 15-29; Louisiana and Mississippi, Dec. 15-29; Maine, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Ohio and Vermont, Oct. 10-24; Massachusetts, Oct. 20-Nov. 3; Michigan, upper peninsula, Oct. 1-15; rest of Michigan, Oct. 15-29; Missouri, Nov. 10-24; Pennsylvania, Oct. 14-28; Virginia, Nov. 20-Dec. 4. The woodcock limit for a day is four, possession limit the same.

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Jamaica and Aqueduct race tracks are to be closed up and converted into real estate developments and the New York race-goer will have to do his breed-improving at Belmont Park and a new track to be built by the Whitneys after the war, according to reliable reports. Belmont is perhaps this country's most beautiful race track far surpassing Hialeah and some of the western tracks, which sometimes are mentioned as rivals of the Long Island layout in Pulchritude.

The track to be built by the Whitneys and others comparably well heeled and well known will be the last word in everything tending to improve the breed of horse-players.

With that preface let us move on to the fact that Jamaica and Aqueduct should have been wiped off the Long Island landscape long before now. Neither is a model of either efficiency or beauty. There are dozens of tracks scattered about the nation which have more to offer to the race-goer and horsemen than these lagers. They are not pretty. They often are shabby.

Undergoes Face-Lifting
At the moment Aqueduct is undergoing a face-lifting in preparation for the meeting coming up next week. There has been so much agitation over the ill-kept barns and the worn out paint job on barns and stands that for the last couple of weeks gentlemen with brushes have been assiduously plying their trade and when the mob from Times Square goes to the Aqueduct races next week they won't know the place.

With a belated pretense at tidying things up for the betting breed improvers, barns have been re-done in a light gray with green trim; the stands have been touched up and the rail and poles are being changed in motif from sombre green and gray to a peit red and gray.

That's all very good and beautiful. But the track still is an antiquated thing in many respects, including the narrow racing strip and the hilly and hole-pocked asphalt area down-near the far turn, a great barren stretch over which horses worth a million must walk every day en route to workouts on the track, with every step likely to lead to an injury.

Jamaica Is Worse
Jamaica is even worse, inasmuch as it is a racing strip queerly-shaped like a pear with sharp turns

Brownies Lead By Two Games

St. Louis Americans Doing Old "Folderoo" As Yanks Take Two From Washington

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Now only two games out of first place, the New York Yankees took another step in the right direction today and increased the heat on the St. Louis Browns by taking both ends of a double header from the Washington Senators yesterday.

The St. Louis team faltered in the ninth inning of its arduous contest with the Detroit Tigers last night, and emerged on the short end of a 4-3 score. The Yanks, with close to 18,000 fans thundering their approval, topped the Senators 9-4 and 4-3 yesterday afternoon.

Frank Crosetti won the nightcap for the Yanks with a ninth-inning homer into the left field stands. Two outs had been marked up by that time, and it looked like an overtime session when Crosetti connected. In the eighth inning of the first game Johnny Lindell smacked a three-bagger with the bases loaded, scoring all three of his mates.

23 For Dizzy
The Detroit victory was credited to Dizzy Trout, who relieved Stubby Overmire in the seventh to score his 23rd victory of the season.

Those were the only games scheduled in both the American and National Leagues yesterday.

The Yanks and the Senators tangled again this afternoon at the stadium and the Browns will meet Detroit in another arduous contest this evening. All other entries in both leagues also have games on tap this afternoon.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Selection of Lt. Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa University as the most valuable player for the all-stars in their game with the Chicago Bears Wednesday night in Dwyer stadium, Evanston, Ill., was announced today.

Dobbs received a substantial majority of the votes taken in a poll of the sports writers from many sections of the country covering the game.

The Tulsa player sparked the All-Stars by his brilliant passing during the time he was in the game and also set a record for the classic with his 85-yard quick kick in the first quarter.

Army And Navy Game Is Again On Restrictions

Annual Service Game At Annapolis For Benefit Of Servicemen

NAVY SECRETARY SELECTS SITE

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Here we are again right back with that old argument concerning the army-navy football game.

I dare say the average football customer doesn't care in the least whether the game is played at Annapolis, at West Point or in some other duly designated point.

I can tell you right at the outset that I have no intention in wartime of picking an argument with the war department at Washington or even the navy department for that matter.

However, the secretary of the navy has decided that the game must be played to limited clientele at Annapolis next fall.

Why So Hidebound

If they are going to be so hidebound about this particular game, then why should they let the navy travel all the way to Cleveland to meet Notre Dame and why should army and navy meet in New York instead of at West Point or Annapolis?

The announcement on site of the army-navy game comes from secretary of the navy James Forrestal. Then it would be no more than fair and proper for him to give reason for holding the Army-Notre Dame game in New York and Navy-Notre Dame game at Cleveland.

He says the Army-Notre contest is being held at Annapolis in keeping with wartime restrictions on use of gasoline and tires, and on transportation facilities. The last time the game was

New Plan For Team Standings

Revolutionary Changes In Method Of Determining Pro Football Ratings

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Revolutionary changes in the method of determining team standings in three departments of play were announced today by Elmer Layden, commissioner of professional football, following a meeting with National league club owners.

In the future, forward passing will be determined by a grading system in which each player and team will be rated on the number of passes completed, the percentage of passes completed, the percentage of touchdowns, interceptions and percentage of attempts intercepted.

Under the method in use until the end of the 1943 season, forward passes were rated only on the number completed and percentage completed.

Individual punt return statistics, previously determined by the number of punts a player handled, will be computed in the future on an inverse grading system involving the number returned and the average distance of returns. The same system will be extended to kickoff returns. Team standings in punt returns will be based on the number returned, average distance of returns and percentage of opponents' punts returned.

Layden proposed the changes after a four-year study of league statistics. A unanimous vote is required to alter existing rules. "It was felt that the primary objectives of a forward pass are to gain ground, score touchdowns and retain possession of the ball," Layden said in discussing the changes in that department. "It seemed unfair under the circumstances to ignore these items which are the principal indexes to a passer's productivity. The same is true of team standings. It is pass attack which produces the most yards and most touchdowns which is the most efficient."

National Tennis Tourney Advances

By PAT ROBINSON

(International News Service Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS)—The boys and girls advance into the third round of the national tennis championships today, with the seeded ranks of the more prominent players still intact and only Sidney Wood and Jack Jossi of Oakland missing from the top-flight of the men.

Wood, No. 7, fell as expected in the first round and Jossi, No. 8 yesterday, was dropped yesterday by Major Alex Carver.

Gals To Play
Four of the seeded girls are sure to be eliminated today because they are pitted against other seeded stars. These matches will bring together Louise Brough, No. 3 and Mary Arnold, No. 5; Margaret Osborne, No. 2 and Shirley Fry, No. 8; Dorothy Bundy, No. 4 and Doris Hart, No. 6; and the defending champion, Pauline Betz, No. 1 of course and Virginia Kovacs, No. 7.

Betz and Osborne figure to win handsily but Miss Hart may cause a mild flutter by upsetting Miss Bundy. The Brough-Arnold match figures to be a toss-up.

City Tenpin Loop Meeting Tonight

All captains of the City Tenpin league will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the Moose club second floor hall for an election of officers for the 1944-45 bowling season. It was announced by Pat Kearns, president of the 1943-44 league.

Any bowlers wanting to take part in the league are asked to attend the session.

10 Years Ago Today: May Looney, Warren, O., girl, wins the $2,000 five-mile Toronto swim.

RAIN FAILS TO HALT GRIDDEERS; FIRST TEAM SET

The table last night hungry had a broken arm. There was mounds and mounds of chicken and everything and table manners were thrown into the wastebasket as piece after piece of steaming delicious chicken disappeared down the throats of those hungry grid hopefuls. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner sees to it that the boys are well fed on anything at the football camp at Muddy Creek Falls, not even work.

Ticket Sale Is Good
The New Castle high team will break camp Saturday and rest on Sunday resuming at Taggart stadium on Monday morning with a workout despite the fact that it is Labor Day. Har-Brack high is due here for the opening game one week from tonight under the lights at Taggart stadium.

Ticket Manager Robert Mills asks that all season ticket holders pick up their tickets at the Sporting Goods Store as soon as possible. The single game tickets for the New Castle-Har Brack game will go on sale at the Sporting Goods Store at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Mills announced. The sale of season tickets has been above expectation this year so far.

ARMY AND NAVY GAME IS AGAIN ON RESTRICTIONS

played at Annapolis, two years ago—also in keeping with wartime restrictions—it drew about 11,000. They attracted about the same crowd at West Point last year. Yet they apply all the pressure that the press will bear for the games between Army and Notre Dame at New York and the Navy and Notre Dame at Cleveland. If they must persist in the high pressure in behalf of the service teams, then they should make sure that the game between them will be witnessed by the maximum in customers.

Could Raise Million
In addition to all that they side-stepped a chance last year to raise a million or so dollars for service funds by putting the game on in the municipal stadium at Philadelphia instead of hiding it away at West Point. It could be a tremendous attraction for good-for-good dough to be used for a good cause. Instead it is a dud.

The Navy or the Army may have the answer to the question as to why the game isn't called off entirely, instead of being held under the imposition of no customers, in view of the fact that both service teams seek all the customers they can get for games with outside opponents. And if the game were held in Philadelphia no more gas and rubber would be expended than in holding it at Annapolis or West Point. Philadelphia is midway between the two academies.

This is by far the worst bit of nonsense to come out of the war and all the more brutal because the game could be utilized to do some good for our shot-up men of the services. The proceeds could be diverted to them and used to help a worthy cause.

They won't get anything to speak of out of other games to be played by the two teams against outside opponents, nor will any rubber or gas or transportation be saved. You figure it out.

Three Games In City Loop Today

Three games will be played off tonight in the city baseball league in an effort to get the second-half schedule out of the way. All games tonight are postponed affairs.

The games:
I. A. Machinists vs. P. R. R.; E. & A. Field.

Moose vs. West Pittsburg at West Pittsburg.
Universal A. A. vs. Johnson Bronze; Marshall Field.
